United National Defense Action Is Pledged at Huge Macon Rally

'In This Crisis There Can Be No Dissension Within Our Ranks,' the Governor Says in Keynote Address.

Political differences and varying interests were forgotten yesterday when more than 4,000 Georgians attended a mammoth defense rally in the municipal auditorium at Macon and pledged united action for national defense.

In the vast audience were soldiers, nurses in uniform, home guards and plain civilians representing virtually every community in the state—and all grimly determined to do their individual part to win through to victory in the present conflict.

The meeting was held under the call of the Governor and Hughes Spaulding, Atlanta attorney, chairman of the Citizens' Defense Committee, formed last week to coordinate all war activities of the state.

Keynote of the meeting was struck by the Governor in the principal address when he said:

"Loyal Loyalty Urged.
"In this crisis there can be no dissension within our ranks. We owe utter loyalty to our nation, to the commander in chief of the Army and Navy, to our men in the armed services on land and sea and in the air."

"That obligation will be fulfilled by the people of Georgia."

In stressing the necessity for burying past disagreements, the Governor said, "I want to tell you that The Atlanta Constitution and the Atlanta Journal and your Governor have kissed and made up for the duration of the war." The Governor has been critical of the Atlanta dailies, objecting to their reporting of the University System controversy that culminated 10 days ago in 10 state colleges being suspended, effective next September, from the accredited list of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

U. S. Must Be Leader.
The colleges were dropped on charges that the ousting of several state educators constituted political interference by the Governor.

Attending the rally in the municipal auditorium were members of the Governor's staff, of the Planning Board, of the State Council for National Defense, of the State Defense Corps, mayors, police chiefs, sheriffs and others interested in and responsible for defense measures.

The Governor said "the very liberty we enjoy to give voice to divergent opinions about internal affairs is dependent upon the victorious outcome of this war. If we lose, then we never will be privileged either to agree or disagree among ourselves again, but will be subjected to the brutal will of criminal overlords from foreign shores."

Russians See Break In Siege Of Leningrad

'Extermination' Called
Soviet Goal As Rout
Continues.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
MOSCOW, Monday, Dec. 15.—Rampant Red armies declared today they had the Germans on the run in a retreat approaching the scale of Napoleon's cold and dismal retreat from Moscow and had overtaken the backtracking Hitler legions with a headlong campaign of extermination.

(The British radio broadcast a Moscow announcement saying the entire line of communications between Moscow and Leningrad soon would be re-established by advancing Red forces, indicating the siege of Leningrad might thereby be lifted.)

Nazi Generation Destroyed
With unsparing phrase, the official Communist organ Pravda claimed the Russian armies already have destroyed an "entire generation of Nazis."

From one end of the broad snow-crusted front to the other the Russians reported success after success, the threat to Moscow eliminated by the rout of the Nazis in the greatest debacle yet to befall Hitler, his efforts to encircle Leningrad smashed, his hopes of getting at Caucasus's rich oil fields thwarted.

Since the start of the German invasion last June 22, the Russians reported, Hitler has lost 6,000,000 men, more than 15,000 tanks, 13,000 planes and 19,000 cannon.

Miscalculation Blamed
The Communist newspaper Pravda attributed the German failure to encircle Moscow to insufficient Nazi forces and miscalculation of Russian strength.

The extent of the danger which hung over Moscow at the height of the Nazi campaign against the capital was disclosed today by Lieutenant General Leonid Govorov, Soviet commander in the sector of the southwest.

From December 1 to 4, Govorov said, in a Pravda interview, the Germans attacked the Minsk-Moscow highway threatening Goltzi, little more than 20 miles west and almost within artillery range of the capital.

A wall of fire from a long pile of straw and dry sticks, a third of a mile wide, sent flames skyward and blocked a German tank advance in this sector, he disclosed.

Confusion Spread.
Then the tables turned with Red army counterattacks which threw the Germans behind the Nara and Moscow rivers. Other counterattacks at the same time along the faltering Moscow front sent the Germans reeling in retreat which at some points turned into disordered flight.

Confusion in the Nazi ranks spread, Govorov continued, when Soviet infantry, cavalry, artillery and planes saw their chance and

Fierce Battles Covering Axis Libyan Retreat

Pursuing British Threaten Encirclement Southwest of Gazala

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 14.—(AP)—German and Italian forces, stubbornly withdrawing from eastern Libya, turned about and fought savage rear guard actions southwest of Gazala, the British reported today, but their positions were said to be threatened by an encircling movement.

Military quarters said tanks and infantry were about three-quarters of the way around the Axis string of defenses stretching 40 miles from Gazala on the coast into the desert.

Hard fighting was said to be taking place at two main centers of resistance, at Gazala itself, which is about 100 miles west of the Egyptian border, and southwest of Gazala.

In fighting farther east, about 500 troops were captured, 18 guns taken and a number of Italian tanks destroyed at Bir Hacheim, 40 miles southeast of Tobruk.

The RAF admitted the loss of 16 planes from its British, Australian and South African forces but declared 18 Germans and Italians were shot down.

The British bombed Axis transport heavily along the Bombardiera road west of Gazala, the Derna airport, and three southwestern Greek ports, Argostoli, Methone and Navarino.

And He told His Disciples this story: He said, "There was once a servant who owed his master a great deal of money, and could not pay it. At which the master, being very angry, was going to have this servant sold for a slave. But the servant kneeling down and begging his master's pardon with great sorrow, the master forgave him. Now this same servant had a fellow-servant who owed him a hundred pence, and instead of being kind and forgiving to this poor man, as his master had been to him, he put him in prison for the debt. His master hearing of it, went to him, and

Series of Tragic Events Makes Dublin State's 'Spot News' Hub

$100,000 Fire, Explosion Aboard Passenger Train, Five Burglaries and Suicide of Prominent Citizen Reported in Single Day

DUBLIN, Ga., Dec. 14.—This Laurens county seat of 6,500 persons became the "spot news" center of the state today as a series of tragic events occurred within a few hours.

A $100,000 fire swept Claxton hospital, the city's largest. Patients were led to safety, however, and none was injured.

A prominent Laurens countess shot and killed herself.

The postoffice here, and four stores at nearby Rentz, were burglarized.

A Dublin man was killed in an explosion of heating equipment aboard a passenger train.

Started in Basement.
The fire started in the basement boiler room of the private hospital this morning and spread rapidly through an opening under the building, Fire Chief Otis Sanders, said.

Flames set off several explosions in the operating room. The 28 patients, smallest number at the hospital in several months, were removed to near-by residences and later transferred to the three other hospitals here.

Dr. E. B. Claxton, owner of the hospital, said normally there are 50 or more patients in the 60-bed institution. Prompt work by firemen and ambulance crews was credited with preventing injury or loss of life.

Nurses' Home Saved.
The nurses' home adjoining the hospital was saved. The Henry Memorial Presbyterian church and several near-by homes were endangered at the height of the

Final Passage Today Seen For War Fund Bill

10-Billion-Dollar Measure
Will Supply Battle
Equipment.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The first war fund bill—a 10-billion-dollar item for more planes, ships and other equipment for battle—is expected to get swift and final approval from both branches of congress tomorrow.

The appropriation bill, in addition to carrying funds to equip an army of 2,000,000 men and supply essential material for another 1,200,000, also will provide more material for lease-lend aid to the nations allied against the Axis powers.

Both the senate and house already have acted on the appropriation legislation, but because there were minor differences in the two bills both branches must approve the final, compromised version.

Once the big money bill is passed and on its way to the White House, the congressional program calls for quick action on the draft extension bill.

Both the senate and house military committees have called meetings for Monday to consider the legislation which would require registration of all men 18 to 64 years of age, inclusive, and would make those aged 19 to 44, inclusive, liable to military service.

High up on the list is legislation authorizing President Roosevelt to use some of the wartime powers granted to Woodrow Wilson two decades ago.

Marines Are Holding Firm on Tiny Island Despite Air Attacks

Dutch Submarines Run Toll of Nip-ponese Vessels to Six in Action
Off Coast of Malaya

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

United States bombers have sent four Japanese troopships to the bottom of the China sea, badly battered three others, and are hitting hard at the coastal footholds of Japanese landing forces on Luzon, an Army headquarters communique from Manila declared yesterday.

The Navy reported, meanwhile, two additional bombing attacks on Wake Island and also that two Japanese bombers had been shot down in attacks on the Pacific outpost.

Enemy Subs Active.
The island, the Navy said in a communique, still is being defended by Marines.

The communique, covering reports received up until noon, said enemy submarines were known to be operating in Hawaiian waters, adding that "vigorous attacks are being made against them."

One of the two latest attacks on Wake Island, a midocean stepping stone on the severed air route to the Far East, was said to have been "undertaken in great force," but damage on the island was termed inconsequential.

Japs Send Out Patrols.
Japan forces which have established a foothold around Vigan were reported sending out patrols today in an apparent effort to widen their holdings in the face of an attack by United States Army bombers.

Except for the region of Vigan, 200 miles north of Manila on Luzon's west coast, there was only local activity.

Sinking of the Japanese transports was announced in an Army communique which asserted that the situation both on the ground and in the air was well in hand as the first week of military operations came to a close.

The Japanese transports were sunk by American fliers off northern Luzon, and are in addition to four Japanese transports sunk December 12 by Dutch submarines in the Gulf of Siam off Malaya, with the loss of about 4,000 lives.

Dutch Add to Toll.
The Dutch last night added to their toll, announcing the sinking of two more vessels, a tanker and a freighter, off Malaya.

Yesterday's American communique did not give the dates of the action.

It said the Japanese already had paid dearly in troop, plane and shipping losses and indicated that the start of the second week of the new war in the east found Japanese landing forces held in tight check.

The war resume from the office of Lieutenant General Douglas MacArthur said the Japanese transports were attacked north of Luzon in waters through which the Japanese tried at heavy cost to reinforce landing parties near Vigan and Aparri.

It was in these waters that Army bombers sank the Japanese battleship Haruna and Navy bombers crippled a second capital ship of the Kongo class.

General MacArthur's report said the Japanese carried out 14 major air attacks on the Philippines yesterday with losses of at least 40 planes.

He credited a Philippine Army division with smashing a Japanese landing at Lingayen, 100 miles northwest of Manila, and said bombers seriously hampered other forces which reached shore, "in limited numbers," at Legaspi, 250 miles southeast of Manila, Vigan, 200 miles north of the capital, and Aparri, Luzon's northernmost outpost.

An Army spokesman said the Japanese had been unable to reinforce the landing party at Legaspi and that only local activity, regarded as well in hand, continued at Vigan and Aparri.

Attacks by American planes on the Japanese-seized areas at the far north of the island were said by other sources to be aimed at wiping out an air base the Japanese were trying to establish there.

High-flying Japanese bombers were seen flying southward over Manila shortly before noon yesterday after the quietest night the capital has had since the start of bombing.

No bombs fell near Manila during the night and the only alarm was about dawn, lasting 55 minutes, when a few planes reported headed for Manila apparently turned away.

No bombs were dropped by the planes, which winged over the capital before noon.

The population of the city seemed in better spirits for the uninterrupted night's rest, and morale remained high.

All newspapers continued publishing daily, although with reduced-size editions.

Jap Radio Ineffective.
The Japanese radio, meanwhile, is keeping up its strenuous propaganda effort, broadcasting speech after speech appealing to the Filipinos to lay down their arms.

The broadcasts have been without noticeable effect.

There has been no food shortage, but there has been some difficulty in buying gasoline for civilian purposes. Prices of all commodities are rising despite government efforts at control.

In an unceasing drive against Fifth Columnists, customs agents have seized two Japanese who they said had home-made bombs and dozens of maps.

Meanwhile, British and Australian air forces credited with smashing Japanese landing attempts on the east coast of Malaya were reported hurled against

Mercury Is Expected
To Drop to 28 Today

Clear and cold, with the temperature dropping below the freezing point, is the forecast for today, Glen Jefferson, regional meteorologist, said yesterday. The low will be 28 degrees, he said.

Temperatures extremes yesterday were 35 and 41. A bright sun today is expected to push the mercury to a maximum of 48, Jefferson said.

Officials Cancel Rose Bowl Game for Military Reasons

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The Rose Bowl football game, scheduled for Pasadena, New Year's Day, was officially called off today after a meeting between committee members and Lieutenant General John L. De Witt, western defense commander.

Five representatives of the famed post-season gridiron classic reached here early today from Pasadena and conferred briefly with General De Witt, who yesterday asked Governor Culbert Olson to request that the game be cancelled for military reasons.

Captain Robert Robb, press relations officer for the Fourth Army, said the Rose Bowl group had "agreed to co-operate 100 per cent with General De Witt."

Captain Robb also disclosed the Army head would ask Governor Olson to make a similar request the East-West charity game here on New Year's Day be called off.

Officials of the East-West contest, not yet advised of such a request, already have indicated they will comply.

Scheduled to play in the Rose Bowl January 1 were Duke and Oregon State.

Informed of the move to cancel the game last night, Coach Lon Stiner said Oregon State officials were heartily in accord with the Army's request "if there is a serious threat to the coast."

Cancellation of the Rose Bowl game also included the abandonment of the big Tournament of Roses parade through the streets of Pasadena, held annually the morning of the game and witnessed by crowds sometimes numbering as many as 1,000,000 persons.

(Duke University officials have suggested to Oregon State that the Rose Bowl game be played in the Duke stadium either with Rose Bowl sanction or otherwise. See sports pages for details.)

The Life of Our Lord

by Charles Dickens

Written for His Children in 1846-49 and Held a Family Secret for Nearly a Century.

Lesson of Forgiveness as Exemplified in the Episode of the Accused Woman Is Emphasized in Sixth Chapter of Dickens' Famous Story.

CHAPTER THE SIXTH.
Six days after the last Miracle of the loaves and fish, Jesus Christ went up into a high mountain, with only three of the Disciples—Peter, James, and John. And while He was speaking to them there, suddenly His face began to shine as if it were the sun, and sparkling silver, and He stood before them like an Angel. A bright cloud overshadowed them at the same time; and a voice, speaking from the cloud, was heard to say, "This is My beloved Son in whom I am well pleased. Hear ye Him!" At which the three Disciples fell on their knees and covered their faces, being afraid.

This is called the Transfiguration of Our Saviour.

When they were come down from this mountain, and were among the people again, a man knelt at the feet of Jesus Christ, and said, "Lord, have mercy on my son, for he is mad and can not help himself, and sometimes falls into the fire, and sometimes into the water, and covers himself with scabs and sores. Some of Thy Disciples have tried to cure him, but could not. Our Saviour cured the child immediately; and, turning to His Disciples, told them they had not been able to cure him themselves, because they did not believe in Him so truly as He had hoped."

Teaches Humbleness.
The Disciples asked Him, "Master, who is greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven?" Jesus called a little child to Him, and took him in His arms, and stood among them, and answered, "A child like this. I say unto you that none but those who are as humble as little children shall enter into Heaven. Whosoever shall receive one such little child in my name receiveth me. But whosoever hurts one of them, it were better for him that he had a millstone tied about his neck, and were drowned in the depths of the sea. The Angels are all children. Our Saviour loved the child and loved all children. Yes, and all the world. No one ever loved all people, so well and so truly as He did."

Peter asked Him, "Lord, how often shall I forgive any one who offends me? Seven times?" Our Saviour answered, "Seventy times seven, and more than that. For how can you hope that God will forgive you, when you do wrong, unless you forgive all other people?"

And He told His Disciples this story: He said, "There was once a servant who owed his master a great deal of money, and could not pay it. At which the master, being very angry, was going to have this servant sold for a slave. But the servant kneeling down and begging his master's pardon with great sorrow, the master forgave him. Now this same servant had a fellow-servant who owed him a hundred pence, and instead of being kind and forgiving to this poor man, as his master had been to him, he put him in prison for the debt. His master hearing of it, went to him, and loved all children. Yes, and all the world. No one ever loved all people, so well and so truly as He did."

Serbian Leader Opposing Nazis Now Full General

LONDON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Slim, fair-haired Draja Mihailovic, a mere colonel in the Yugoslav army before the Germans overran his country, has been raised to the rank of full general in recognition of his "magnificent work" in organizing resistance to the Nazi occupation. Several hundred thousand Axis troops appear to be tied up in Yugoslavia and Greece, opposing patriot armies waging small-scale war.

The Yugoslav government in exile, in announcing Mihailovic's promotion today, declared that under Mihailovic, Serb resistance had reached the proportions of full-blown military operations and could no longer be regarded as mere guerrilla warfare.

(In Greece, according to the British radio as heard in New York by CBS, "18 German and Italian divisions are being kept busy trying to choke the revolt there.")

"Regular War" Reported. (Quoting Emmanuel Tsouderos, premier of the Greek government in exile, the broadcast said a "regular small-scale war is on in Greece," with Greek forces inflicting heavy losses on an Italian infantry regiment in the north and sinking an Italian ship in a harbor on Corfu.)

Yugoslavs here said no details as to the extent of fighting in their homeland had been received.

recently, but that there was evidence that pressure on the German army of occupation is increasing. They refused to divulge details of their contacts with General Mihailovic or explain how Yugoslav communiques got out of the country.

The most recent was issued in Cairo last Thursday. It stated a Yugoslav force of 80,000 was holding its positions south of Belgrade. Attempt "Ineffective."

Continuing Greek resistance was announced on November 18 by Crown Prince Paul, who told a London audience that 15 Italian divisions (about 225,000 men) and more than 70,000 Germans were immobilized "in an ineffective attempt to keep order."

General Mihailovic, a former professor at the military academy at Belgrade, at one time was the Yugoslav military attaché at Sofia.

When King Peter and the Yugoslav government were forced to flee by the German onslaught, he pleaded with General Dusan Simovich, premier and chief of staff, for permission to organize a force. When it was granted, he went into the mountains, where he rounded up scattered detachments of the Yugoslav army and welded them into an army which, the Yugoslavs declare, is a real menace to the Germans.

Farm Labor Shortage Impending, McNutt Says

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, said today there was "an impending serious farm labor shortage."

McNutt made this forecast in urging that farmers use facilities of the United States Employment Service to obtain workers.

"We cannot," he said in a statement, "afford the waste and suffering which comes with haphazard labor recruiting and uncontrolled migration. Such migration as is necessary must be carefully planned and controlled if we are to use our man-power effectively."

SANTA IN ARMS—The Treasury Department yesterday urged everybody to carry on this year as always that fine old custom of Christmas giving—but instead of trinkets and baubles and toys they urged that more significant gift, a book of defense stamps, a defense bond, something that expresses the spirit of the season and at the same time helps the nation arm.

U. S. Bombers Sink Four Japanese Troopships

Japanese tanks and armored cars in an attempt to stem the drive southward from Thailand on both sides of the Malay peninsula.

A major battle apparently was shaping up along the jungle frontier. A terse British communique reported sharp fighting in Kedah province of northwestern Malaya and in the Kalantan area of the northeast.

"On both fronts," the war bulletin declared, "fighter aircraft are supporting our troops."

In London, an authoritative British source said Japanese troops had struck across Thailand into southern British Burma near Point Victoria.

The British Broadcasting Corporation, quoting dispatches from the Malay front, said the frontier defense line was held by English, Scottish and Indian troops.

Singapore Under Alarm. The broadcast said they held positions north of Alor Star, less than 20 miles inside Malaya at the northwest, and that some of the fighting was taking place north of the frontier, in that territory.

The British radio emphasized the transfer of air units to the border defense and pointed out that earlier in the fight they had been mainly occupied in battering Japanese landing attempts.

Singapore had another air-raid alarm during the day, but no bombing was reported.

British fighters were said to have beaten off Japanese bombers which tried three times to continue last week's raids on the west coast part of Penang.

Singapore prepared housing facilities for approximately 600 European women and children removed from Penang, which has borne the brunt of Japanese air attacks thus far. Barely 60 miles from the Thai frontier, it is within easy range of Japanese planes.

Chinese Press Attacks. Chinese troops pressed their attacks on the flank and rear of Japanese forces threatening Hongkong with fighting on at Tamshu and Pingshan, according to front line dispatches to Chungking.

Tamshu and Pingshan are near the frontier of the British Crown Colony and are east of the Canton-Kowloon railway.

Pingshan is about eight miles north of the mainland frontier of the Crown Colony and about 13 miles west of the Canton-Kowloon railway. Tamshu is about 13 miles northwest of Pingshan.

The Japanese opened a general land and air offensive against Hongkong at dawn in an all-out effort to take the British Crown Colony after rejection of an ultimatum for surrender, it was announced by official Tokyo radio.

21 Vessels Claimed. At the same time Japanese headquarters declared that an entire British mechanized division had been destroyed in a Japanese advance over the Malayan frontier toward Singapore, and the Japanese press claimed that 21

American and British naval vessels had been sunk or put out of commission in the week-old war of the Pacific.

Mass air raids also were made on Mergui and Victoria airdromes in British Burma by army planes and two transports were sunk in an attack on Penang Island off the coast of Malaya, said the Japanese communique. Kuantan airdrome on the east coast of Malaya also was raided.

Victoria and Mergui are on the west coast of the narrow Malay peninsula which is divided for a large part of its length by the Thailand-Burma border. Victoria is at the southern extremity of the tongue of Burma territory about 150 miles south of Tenasserim. Mergui is about 170 miles north of Victoria.

Churchill Sends Message. The British garrison's fight for Hongkong was watched closely in London as observers weighed the Tokyo reports of a terrific offensive against the colony and Chungking accounts of a strong drive toward Canton to ease the pressure on the British.

Japanese claims to have captured Kowloon on the mainland section of Hongkong colony were without confirmation in official quarters. It was said, however, that Hongkong was well guarded and its capture would prove a hard assignment.

Prime Minister Churchill sent the following message to Hongkong's defenders:

"We are all watching day by day and hour by hour your stubborn defense of the port and fortress of Hongkong."

"You guard a link long famous in world civilization between the Far East and Europe."

"Certain Victory." "We are sure that the defense of Hongkong against Japanese and unprovoked attack will add a glorious page to British annals."

"All our hearts are with you in your ordeal. Every day of your resistance brings nearer our certain victory."

Authoritative military quarters in London said the Japanese had made an advance over the Burma border in the vicinity of Victoria. The Japanese evidently were attempting to broaden their hold on the narrow Kra Isthmus of the Malay peninsula in order to widen the land space separating British forces in Malaya and Burma.

Japanese already are in full possession of southern Thailand, which occupies the whole width of the peninsula south of Victoria.

From Shanghai it was reported that the United States "unboat Wake captured there has been renamed The Tar and put into Japanese service."

Meanwhile, on the political and domestic front, the newspaper Hocht reported from Bangkok, capital of subdued Thailand, that Play 'Torpedo,' Aid U. S. Fight on Axis

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 14.—(AP) Play "torpedo" if you want to "stamp" out the Axis, suggests George C. White, Curtiss-Wright airplane plant engineer.

The game, devised by White and fellow workers, features purchase of defense stamps, in the following amounts, for each Axis ship sunk by Uncle Sam's armed forces: Battleship, $5; plane carrier, $4; cruiser, $3; destroyer, $2; submarine, $1; any other Axis ship, 50 cents.

Only ships recognized officially in United States government communiques should be scored, White added.

a reshuffle of the Thai cabinet would be a "natural sequel" to the newly completed Japanese-Thailand alliance.

Formosa Has 'Alert' The newspaper gave as the reason the fact that many of Thailand's present leaders were educated in England or America.

A Thailand communique last Monday said the Bangkok government had received promises Japan would respect Thailand's sovereignty.

Formosa, Japan's island base off the Chinese coast, had its first air raid scare of the war Saturday night when Japanese army headquarters reported, 12 "enemy" planes were sighted off Takao.

Takao, in southwestern Formosa, is about 450 miles north of Manila as the bomber flies.

The Japanese High Command said the planes veered off without making an attack.

blaze. All ambulances in the city responded to the fire call.

Railroad officials at Macon reported William Henry Holland, 51, of Dublin, a railway mail clerk, was killed in an explosion of heating equipment aboard a passenger coach of the Macon, Dublin & Savannah Railway train.

Holland, who had operated mail runs on the Central of Georgia railway out of Macon for three years, was off duty and enroute to his home when the explosion occurred at Fitzpatrick, 12 miles southeast of here.

Holland was a deacon in the First Baptist church. His wife and a daughter survive.

Prominent Jeweler. W. E. Blankenship, 72, prominent jeweler at nearby Wrightsville and father of Dr. C. C. Blankenship, Swainsboro optometrist, shot himself through the head with a pistol at his home early today, Francis Davis, Johnson county coroner, reported.

Coroner Davis said Blankenship's wife, their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Kittrell, were in an adjoining room when the shot was fired. Blankenship had been ill several years, it was disclosed. The coroner said no inquest was held.

Burglary of the Dublin postoffice was revealed by heriff I. F. Coleman, of Laurens county, who gave no estimate of the loss. Besides the postoffice, four stores at Rentz, 15 miles southwest of here, were looted.

William Coleman said. Loss was not estimated.

Postal inspectors will join in the investigation of the postoffice burglary the sheriff said.

Deanna To Entertain Soldiers In England

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Deanna Durbin said today she would leave Tuesday or Wednesday for England to entertain servicemen and war workers during the Christmas season.

The 19-year-old singing star said she had accepted an invitation of Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, and that she and her producer-husband, Vaughn Paul, would be guests of the British embassy in Washington for a few days before flying to London.

"If I can help in the war effort, even in this small way," said Miss Durbin, "then I shall feel well repaid."

Turkey Stays Neutral

Victory Seen For Diplomacy Of U. S., British

Rumania Declares War On America Under Axis Alignment.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Turkey today notified the United States it would remain neutral in the "new conflict which has just broken out."

Turkey notification was given to the State Department today by the Turkish ambassador, M. M. Ertegun.

He delivered a note, addressed to Secretary of State Hull, which said:

"I have the honor to inform your excellency that in a telegram dated Ankara, December 10, 1941, but received in Washington only this morning, I am directed by my government to notify the government of the United States of America that the strengthening of the republic has decided to extend the neutrality of Turkey to the new conflict which has just broken out."

"Please accept, Mr. Secretary of State, the assurance of my highest consideration."

Lend-Lease Aid Given. Turkey has remained neutral in the European war despite diplomatic efforts by Germany and Britain to secure her as an active ally.

Great Britain in October, 1939, extended credits of 40,000,000 pounds to the Turkish government to stabilize Turkish currency and to provide approximately $100,000,000 for the mechanization and modernization of the Turkish army and the strengthening of fortifications in the Dardanelles, the strategic strait between the Black sea and the Mediterranean.

The United States only recently revealed that lend lease aid had been extended to Turkey, through the British, since last May.

The lend-lease aid was given through the British to enable the British government to make good its commitments under the Anglo-Turkish pact.

Great Britain had pledged itself to deliver to the Turks specific arms and munitions, including tanks, anti-aircraft guns, tanks and other weapons and supplies. But because of the rapid extension of the conflict on many fronts, the British were unable to deliver, and turned to the United States for assistance.

Diplomatic Victory Seen. The Anglo-Turkish pact provided also that Turkey, in return for the assistance from Great Britain would maintain a benevolent neutrality toward Britain, and would not permit the Germans or any other military force to use Turkish territory against Britain or permit the passage of troops or military equipment through Turkish territory, in what might be hostile acts against Britain.

The declaration of Turkey's neutrality was interpreted here, in the light of those facts, as meaning that the delivery of American supplies to Britain for final delivery to the Turks had made it possible for the Turkish government to maintain its neutral stand and not be forced to join the Axis under threat of invasion by the Nazis.

For that reason, Turkey's declaration of neutrality was considered in some quarters as a diplomatic victory for the nations opposed to Axis aggression.

(Another strategic neutral, Eire, declared through its prime minister, Eamon de Valera, that "it would be unnatural if we did not sympathize in a special manner" with the United States now that America has gone to war, but it was added that Eire can only be a "friendly neutral.")

Rumania at War. The State Department announced it has received formal notification from the legation in Bucharest that Rumania had declared a state of war with the United States.

The Rumanian foreign office, the department said, delivered the following note to the legation Friday:

"The royal Rumanian government has the honor to communicate to the government of the United States of America that, in conformity with the dispositions of the tripartite pact and respecting the obligations of solidarity contained in this pact, as a result of the state of war which has arisen between the United States of America on the one hand and the German Reich, Italy and Japan, on the other, Rumania herself is in a state of war with the United States of America."

Wants U. S. to Win If It Can—But Don't Deprive Her of a Man

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 14.—(AP)—The war situation has created something of a morale problem, at least for one co-ed at the University of Georgia.

She wrote the editor of the Red and Black, campus publication:

"I know the situation's tense, "And we're giving our all for national defense, "Of guns and boats, and I think it's fine, "But there's just one place where I draw the line."

"It's clear to me they've gone too far, "And at this point I draw the line, "I just don't like it and I won't pretend, "They can't deprive us girls of men!"

"So this Christmas I'm not asking for a brand-new car, "NOT even champagne nor caviar, "I'll be perfectly frank and play my hand "All I want is a brand-new man."

Correction and Retraction

In The Constitution's second edition of December 12, under an article entitled, "Gunshot Wound Fatal to Elberton Resident," the following erroneously appeared:

(ELBERTON, Ga., Dec. 11—H. B. Swearingen, about 60 years old, died here yesterday of gunshot wounds received Monday, the shot allegedly being fired by Talmadge Bowers, who is in jail here and claims self-defense in the shooting.)

Mr. Talmadge Bowers was not involved in any manner whatever in this homicide. He was not alleged to have fired any shot. He was not in jail. His name was used by mistake. The name of "Talmadge Thomas" was intended.

The Constitution is glad to make this correction, and does hereby correct and retract that article.

Wait not for RAIN to weave thy CLOAK

SO SAID an ancient philosopher in a far country, urging mankind to prepare for the rainy days of life before the dark clouds gathered.

In our own land life insurance, based on thrift, provides "cloaks" against their rainy days for 65 million policyholders. And each "cloak," through the service of life insurance agents, is carefully woven to give its owner the particular kind of protection he needs.

YEAR BY YEAR, for a century, the "cloaks" of life insurance have become stronger and more dependable. This year they will make easier the troubles of six million men and women and children, who will receive benefits because someone to whom they were dear practiced thrift and did not wait for rain to weave a cloak.

Indian Heroes, British Officer Stem Japanese

Gallant Stand Against Superior Forces Cited in Malaya.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—(P)—The heroic rearguard fight of 12 Indian soldiers and a British lieutenant who fought off an attack of greatly superior Japanese land forces and air attacks at Kota Bharu in Malaya and are now believed to have been lost in the last ditch stand was reported today in British dispatches from Singapore.

The story had its beginning last Monday at 1 o'clock in the morning when the first Japanese troops landed at Kota Bharu, an air-drome just south of the Thailand border. These troops were repulsed, but that afternoon an additional force arrived supported by aircraft, which for several hours strafed the British defenses with machinegun fire, dropped bombs and threw hand grenades.

Late in the afternoon the position became untenable. Buildings and whatever equipment might be useful to the Japanese were destroyed before the withdrawal, and the young officer, identified only as "Lieutenant Close," was left behind with the dozen Indians.

Fighting under pressure both on land and from the air, and with everything about them burning, these 13 men were said to have kept the Japanese at bay long enough for all the remaining defenders to reach the main body of British troops.

Nothing has been heard since from lieutenant or any of his men, the dispatches concluded, and it is feared none of them got away.

Boy, 11, Sets Off Burglar Alarm

An 11-year-old boy turned "yegg" yesterday to baffle six policemen until a persistent burglar alarm led to his capture, an Atlanta police report disclosed.

Police received a call to the Bass Furniture Company, 142-150 Mitchell street. A back window had been opened, setting off the burglar alarm. Six policemen answered the call, found the broken window, searched vainly for a burglar. They returned to headquarters with a piece of broken window glass to study fingerprints, the report said.

Hardly had the policemen returned to the station when the furniture store alarm went off again. Search revealed a battered safe lock and an 11-year-old boy, who, apparently undaunted by the first interruption, had returned to his attempts at opening the safe.

The boy was turned over to juvenile authorities.

9 Reported Doomed

In Trieste Conspiracy
BERN, Switzerland, Dec. 14.—(P)—The Swiss Telegraph Agency reported from Rome tonight that nine of the 60 persons accused of conspiracy and activity against the state in the trials of Trieste were condemned to death today. Forty-eight others were sentenced to imprisonment for terms of from three to 30 years. Three were acquitted.

The 60 had been accused of plotting to blow up Italian bridges, participating in the sabotage of Italian munitions plants, planning subversive activities with Yugoslavs and preparing a conspiracy to assassinate Premier Mussolini in 1938.

Mammoth Slide Kills 500 in Peruvian Town

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 14.—(P)—A tremendous waterslide which struck the departmental capital of Huaraz yesterday took a toll of more than 500 lives and wiped out the city's entire residential section, according to reports reaching here today.

Manuel Palma, owner of a Lima-Huaraz bus line, told the Associated Press by telephone that conditions were "indescribable"; that the slide of water, mud, rocks and volcanic lava was 150 feet high and more than half a mile wide when it hit; that 500 bodies were in the local hospital and hundreds of others were strewn along the roads for as much as six miles outside Huaraz, and that bodies were being brought to the hospital in truck-loads.

"No one living in the northern residential section is believed to have escaped alive," said Palma.

He added that so far it had not been possible to ascertain the cause of the catastrophe. First reports said it might have been due to an eruption of the near-by Hataquenhua volcano, but Palma reported the volcano showed no signs of activity.

Villages Wiped Out.
He said many small Indian communities had been wiped out, and that the tons of rocks and mud had thrown the Santa river out of its course.

Rescue work was hampered further by the fact that an earthquake at 5:50 (E. S. T.) this morning, the longest and most violent since the disastrous earthquake of May 24, 1940, threw the population into a panic.

Boy Gives Alarm.
"No one living in the northern residential section is believed to have escaped alive," said Palma.

The first notice of the advancing slide at 7:15 yesterday morning, he climbed to the top of a boiler and, by shouts and signals, warned the few persons who already were awake—until the slide caught and buried him. No one ever knew his name.

A battalion of engineers arrived today from Trujillo, to the north, to help in the rescue work. The government yesterday dispatched 10 trucks carrying doctors, nurses and medical supplies to the stricken city. An official party headed by President Manuel Prado y Ugarteche was expected in Huaraz tonight. Their trip from Lima was delayed by the fact the earthquake blocked a portion of the Pan-American highway 25 miles north of here.

U. S., Chinese Pilots Heroes At Hongkong

More Than 275 Flown Out in Face of Attack Threats.

CHUNKING, Dec. 14.—(P)—Taking off and landing in the face of possible Japanese air attacks, American and Chinese pilots ferried more than 275 persons out of beleaguered Hongkong during the first two nights of the Japanese siege.

The news was withheld from publication until today to safeguard all concerned in the operation.

The pilots, employed by the China National Aviation Corporation, which is operated jointly by the Chinese government and Pan-American Airways, made 16 flights out of Hongkong, landing most of their passengers at a point about 200 miles inland from the British Crown Colony. Some planes flew all the way to Chungking.

Among those rescued were Madame Sun Yat-sen, widow of the founder of the Chinese republic; H. H. Kung, Chinese finance minister; American and British members of the Chinese currency stabilization board and C. P. Chen, head of the board, and the staff and families of the China National Aviation Corporation with the exception of Schaefer Pass, district traffic agent, who volunteered to supervise arrangements at the Hongkong end.

The pilots also managed to save five of the seven CNAC planes which were at the Hongkong air-drome when war broke out. One of these, forced down at an inland airfield by engine trouble on Wednesday, was machinegunned and destroyed by Japanese planes.

Several rescue planes again headed for Hongkong on Wednesday night, but were warned off by British military authorities and forced to return.

The rescued passengers hailed the shuttle service as the most perilous bit of work in the history of commercial aviation.

Among those rescued was the crew of Pan-American's Hongkong Clipper, which the Japanese destroyed last Monday. With their captain, Fred S. Ralph, they now are in Chungking.

Eight American pilots took part in the rescue, as well as two Chinese. At least three of them went without sleep for 50 to 60 hours.

No casualties were reported among the pilots or their passengers, who included more than 30 Americans, among them four women.

'Atmospheric Conditions' Explain Ocean 'Flashes'

OCEAN CITY, Md., Dec. 14.—(P)—Coast Guardsmen stationed at Ocean City today attributed to "atmospheric conditions" long red streaks of light and white flashes which residents reported seeing on the horizon off this ocean resort during the night.

Residents of the area disagreed as to whether intermittent flashes had been accompanied by sounds resembling explosions. Aircraft spotters stationed along the coast first reported hearing noises "like rolling thunder" during the night.

Navy Pays Tribute To Men Who Died On Reuben James

ABOARD THE U. S. FRIGATE CONSTITUTION AT BOSTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—On the rain-pelted quarter-deck of "Old Ironsides," the most famous warship in American history, the Navy held solemn memorial services today for the 100 hero dead of the destroyer Reuben James, first American craft lost in the conflict that now has engaged the United States.

Relatives of the men who lost their lives when the Reuben James was torpedoed while on convoy duty west of Ireland in October joined in prayer with officers and seamen of the Navy's fighting forces of the present day in the very place that once ran with the blood of fighters of another day.

While the wind strummed through the shrouds of the 143-year-old square-rigger and drops of rain fell softly through openings in a wooden covering over the deck, tear-stained, tight-lipped faces were raised as flowers were dropped through a gun port onto the waters, and a chaplain prayed—

"Let Thy benediction rest upon their graves. May the solemn surge of ocean, music they loved in life, be their never ceasing requiem."

Bluejackets, with heads bowed, stood near 32-pounders that once barked their challenges in the bloody conflict with the pirates of the Barbary Coast and in the war with Britain in 1812. A low-headed boy among the relatives clenched one little fist, and with the other jammed his woolen cap into his eyes to hide his tears.

There was music of an organ, but the melancholy sounds of fog horns in the harbor, and the rattling of riveters in the war-bristling Navy yard were the only accompaniment as Rear Admiral W. T. Tarrant, commandant of the yard, briefly reviewed the tragedy of the Reuben James, and said: "From their unselfish sacrifice, may we obtain renewed inspiration to 'dedicate ourselves to the unfinished task which they have thus far so nobly advanced.'"

Six women, led by Mrs. Haywood L. Edwards, of Newport, R. I., widow of the commander who went down with the James, tossed flowers on the ebbing tide, and even as they did, the sun broke through the thick clouds and bathed the wreaths.

Beyond the fact that the Navy was using its greatest historic treasure as the scene for its tribute to heroes in action, there was another link between "Old Ironsides" and the Reuben James.

The man from whom the latter vessel was named once served aboard the Constitution. And when, as Navy tradition has it, boatwain's mate Reuben James was fighting on another vessel, and saved his ship from the sweep of a Tripolitan pirate's scimitar in 1804, the guns of "Old Ironsides" were blasting away nearby.

Navy men recalled these pages from the past today as they filed onto decks where many a defeated foe of American liberty knelt in surrender.

But they muttered a fervent "amen" when Captain Herbert Dumstrey, Navy chaplain, intoned from the Scriptures:—"God is our refuge and our strength. He maketh wars to cease unto the ends of the earth. He burneth the chariots in fire."

Newly Inducted Selectee Dies Of Car Injuries

Private Cyril Bolch, 21, Succumbs in Hospital At Fort McPherson.

Private Cyril Bolch, 21, recently inducted into the Army at the Fort McPherson reception center, was injured fatally last night when he was struck by an automobile on Peachtree street, near Harris street, in the city. The soldier was admitted to the post hospital where he died several hours later. Police reported the driver of the car as Mrs. E. V. Buckner, 55, of a Gordon street address. No charges were lodged against the driver. Home address of the soldier was not learned. The death was Atlanta's 37th traffic fatality of the year.

Moscow Scarred But Intact After German Siege

(Henry C. Cassidy, chief of the Associated Press bureau in Moscow, returned to the Russian capital Saturday from Kuibyshev, alternate capital, after an absence of almost two months. Here is his first-hand account of how Moscow stood up under the German pressure and how the Russians came through the siege.)

By HENRY C. CASSIDY.

MOSCOW, Dec. 13.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Victorious in battle, Moscow stands today somewhat scarred but generally intact after its struggle for existence against the German offensive which the Russians report has turned into a rout.

The Russians declare that the Germans are in full retreat on all sectors of the Moscow front like their Napoleonic predecessors, but without having entered the capital.

With other American and British correspondents, I flew from Kuibyshev to Moscow.

Confidence Grows.

We found the city surprisingly little changed by the ordeal. Tension was relaxed and the atmosphere of confidence here is growing since last night's official announcement that the offensive which the Germans launched November 16 has been turned into a wild retreat by the Russian counteroffensive.

The Reds hailed the Battle of Moscow as the greatest ever fought and the Russian victory the greatest since the war began for the Soviets about six months ago.

The Byzantine turrets of the Kremlin and the modern structures of Gorky street stand unscathed. The Bolshoi theater and Moscow University suffered heavily from German raids but are still standing.

Subways, street cars and buses are still operating; the lights, water, gas and other public services continue to function, and stores are doing a flourishing business.

Snowstorm Near Front.

We left Kuibyshev on a bright, crisp winter morning, taking off on a runway packed with ice and snow.

Our plane, a twin-engine Soviet troops carrier, skimmed over tree-tops and rooftops and we flew for five hours over vast, snowy expanses of Russian hinterland untouched by the Germans.

Nearing the front, we encountered a snowstorm which reduced visibility almost to zero.

While one member of the crew kept watch for enemy aircraft at his gunpost on the roof, the pilot brought the plane over Moscow and landed easily at its busy airport.

Driving through the streets, we saw many pedestrians, although the population of the capital is estimated at less than one-quarter of its normal 4,000,000.

Few Recent Bombings.

A skeleton staff headed by Second Secretary Llewellyn Thompson, of Colorado, remained at the U. S. embassy in Moscow when Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt and others in the diplomatic corps left for Kuibyshev.

They said the situation had become easier since December 8 soon after the start of the Russian counteroffensive.

There have been few bombings recently, perhaps because of the bad weather. However, the Germans tried to raid the city last night.

Izvestia, government paper, said "the German retreat from Moscow does not by far settle the outcome of this war. This is only an important stage in our battle which continues."

Pravda, Communist party organ, declared "we must not lose our heads... the enemy is still on the approaches to Moscow. The danger has not yet passed. No one has sounded the all clear."

German Supply Ship Disintegrated By Bombs

LONDON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—A German supply ship "blew up and disappeared" when hit three times by bombs off the Norwegian coast this morning, air ministry sources said today.

The ship was attacked from the air by a United States-built Hudson bomber.

BRITISH DESTROYER SUNK, NAZIS CLAIM

BERLIN, Dec. 14.—(Official Radio Received By AP)—Probable sinking of a British destroyer at the entrance of Bristol channel was credited by the German high command today to a Nazi dive bomber, which was said to have scored several direct hits on the vessel.

Vichy Protests Continued Nazi Reprisal Moves

'Profound Uneasiness' Expressed Over Order For 100 Executions.

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The Petain government in an official communique tonight stated that an order of German authorities for the execution of 100 "Jewish Communists and Anarchists" in occupied France provokes "profound uneasiness among Frenchmen."

Furthermore, the communique said, the French government has expressed its sentiment to the German authorities.

The Germans announced yesterday that the 100 would be shot in occupied France in sweeping reprisal executions for "recent attacks against the occupation troops." At the same time a fine of 1,000,000,000 francs ($20,000,000) was imposed on Jews in the occupied zone.

Today the French government in its communique asserted that although those sentenced to be shot were not hostages this time, but "delinquents," nevertheless the number of those condemned provokes profound uneasiness among Frenchmen.

The communique points out also that it always has affirmed its repudiation and that of the French people regarding the attacks committed, that in fact its own police had arrested several of those guilty of the attacks, and that as a result the French had sought and expected to obtain a marked reduction of the number to be shot.

Yesterday's German announcement said that a large number of Jews had been deported to the east to be put to hard labor.

This was the first time since the Germany-Vichy armistice that Marshal Petain's government has come out squarely against measures of the German occupation authorities.

Russians See Break In Siege Of Leningrad

threw everything they had at the Germans.

Coupled with the official announcement that the Nazis were being blasted back from the Baltic to the Black sea, the army organ Red Star exhorted Soviet forces to a supreme victory effort with the declaration:

"Extermination" Goal. "It is necessary to finish the enemy and administer such a blow that he will never be able to rise again. Complete extermination of Hitler's hordes, complete extermination of every German occupant to the last man is our objective."

A broadcast war bulletin of the official information bureau declared the Red army had recaptured the railway station of Uzlovaya, 40 miles southeast of Tula, Dubna to the west of Tula, and Verkhovne, northeast of Ljvny, in day-long battling which raged on all fronts. Uzlovaya and Dubna are in the sector about 100 miles south of Moscow, and Verkhovne is in the Orel sector about 200 miles south of the capital, where other Soviet broadcasts declared 400 villages and towns have been taken in the Red army's sweep. Capture of Verkhovne followed the announcement yesterday that the Germans had been driven out of Ljvny.

In addition, the Russian Black sea fleet was reported vigorously in action. The communique said a naval unit had sunk a huge 25,000-ton Nazi transport.

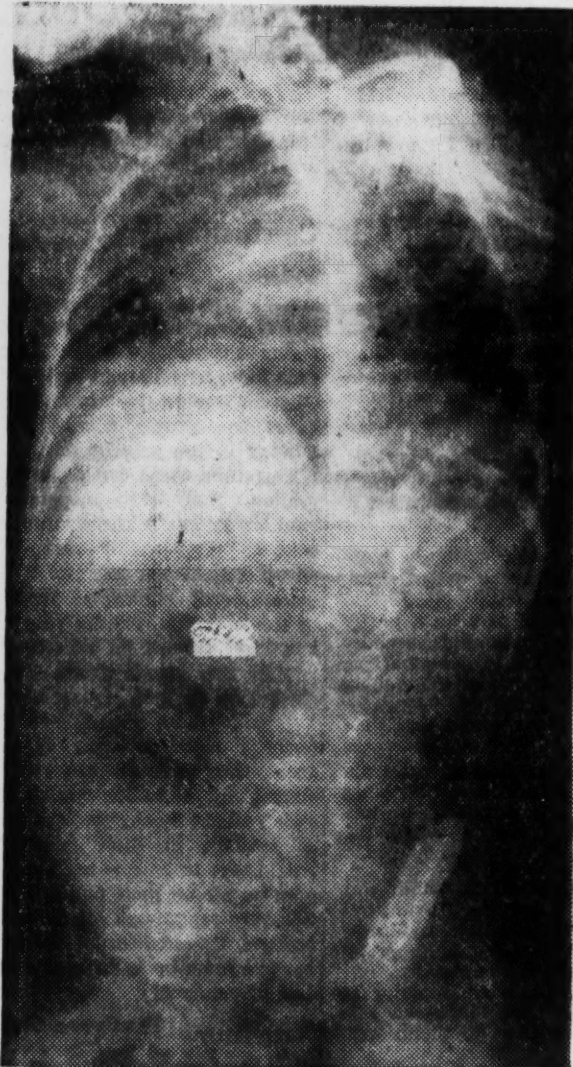

On the southern flank the Sea of Azov, port of Taganrog, 40 miles west of Rostov, was said to be completely surrounded by Red army forces.

In the Yelets area some 200 miles south of the capital, the Moscow radio reported, cavalry-supported troops have retaken more than 400 villages and towns in a savage counteroffensive which has wiped out two battalions of German infantry.

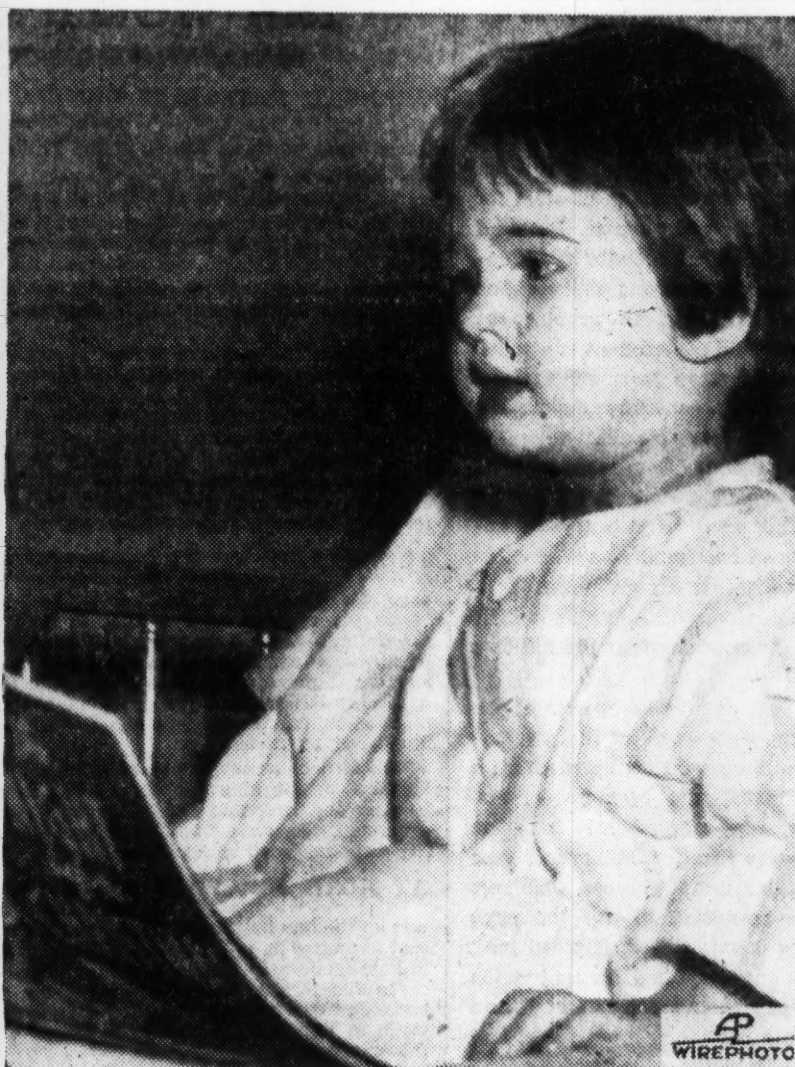

Leningrad Point Relaken. In a single sector of the Moscow front, the Soviet Information Bureau claimed, the Red army destroyed 24 tanks, 16 guns, seven trench mortars, 54 motorcycles, nine armored cars and a quantity of ammunition.

The bureau's bulletin added that troops defending besieged Leningrad in the north had killed 400 Nazis in driving the Germans out of a fortified position identified officially only as "N."

(The German High Command reported "good success" in artillery attacks on military objectives around Leningrad and shipping in the Crimean port of Sevastopol. "Otherwise," the communique said, "war activity was restricted to defense against local enemy attacks.")

The Red army assault, which the official radio said is "giving the Germans no respite by day or night," appeared to be strongest on the southern flank. Nazi forces seeking to establish a new line along the Mius river after falling back from Rostov-on-Don lost more than 200 trucks, seven tanks and 11 guns in a Russian air attack, according to a broadcast communique.

Six German planes were shot down and about 1,000 German troops killed in these operations, the communique reported.

In the Yelets area the Russian tabulation of the spoils left by retreating German forces is continuing, and now includes 907 trucks and 1,206 horses, 226 field pieces, 319 machineguns, 165 automatic rifles, 1,250 ordinary rifles, 1,055 carts, 30,000 shells, 500,000 cartridges and 500 mines.

In the central sector before Moscow, Soviet guerrilla bands were said to be contributing to the Russian successes through operations behind the German lines. One detachment was reported to have wrecked Nazi communications and destroyed supply trucks.

(Russian and German troops in the Moscow sector are fighting in temperature 56 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit, according to a Vichy radio broadcast heard in New York by CBS. The broadcast said the information was received in a telegram from Berlin.)

Italian Prince, Given Immunity To Visit Mother in U. S., Seized

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(P)—An American relative of Prince Alessandro Torlonia, of Rome, disclosed today that federal agents had seized the 29-year-old Italian noble as he prepared to leave the country.

His aunt, Mrs. Charles A. Moore, of Greenwich, Conn., described as "outrageous" his arrest and internment at Ellis Island with 502 other persons the federal government has rounded up as "suspicious enemy aliens."

The Prince is the son of the late Don Marino Torlonia, Duke of Poli, and Prince di Civitella Cesi, and Mrs. Elsie Moore Torlonia, of New York City, the former Elsie Moore, of Brooklyn, who divorced the young Prince's father in 1928 and regained American citizenship.

Prince Torlonia was permitted to fly to this country three weeks ago to visit his mother who is still critically ill in her Park avenue apartment. Warring powers cut red tape to permit his entry, and Britain assured him safe passage.

Mrs. Moore said her nephew was seized by federal officers who "simply took him away to Ellis Island."

"He had no warning and there was no reason for it. All his papers were in order. This was shameful," J. Edgar Hoover

(director of the FBI) and everybody was behind it."

FBI agents declined to confirm or deny his arrest.

Capitol Homes Tenants Call Mayor 'Bad Boy'

Capitol Homes Tenants' Association yesterday called a meeting of the "communists" for tonight. The circular put out yesterday reads:

"Meeting of the 'Communists' (occupants of communistic housing projects). The tenants of Capitol Homes will hold an indignation meeting at the Community Center auditorium Monday, December 15, at 7:30 o'clock at night, answering Bad Boy, Our Mayor Roy LeCraw, who, according to press dispatches, assailed housing projects as communistic in a speech away from home last week. Come out and get your feelings off your chest. Let's inform our Mayor how a happy, comfortable community of fine, hard-working loyal American citizens feel about his outbursts by boiling down our indignation and resentful feelings into some dignified resolutions of resentment."

CAMELS PRINCE ALBERT

Season's Greetings

Make your gift Camels. America's favorite cigarette is sure to please. The gay gift package below contains four boxes of the popular flat fifties. No other wrapping needed.

Another Camel way to say "Merry Christmas"—the famous Camel carton (10 packs of 20's). Hours of Camel's mild, flavorful smoking pleasure. All ready to give—with place for name.

You're proud to present pipe-smokers with this big one-pound tin of mild, rich-tasting Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco. Magnificent in its Christmas jacket... just right in a pipe!

CAMELS

There's an added pleasure in giving Camels at Christmas. You know your gift will be so genuinely welcome. More smokers prefer Camels than any other cigarette. And that preference holds for men in the Army, the Navy, the Marines, and the Coast Guard, too! So remember those lads in uniform... remember all the cigarette smokers on your list... with the cigarette of costlier tobaccos—Camels. Your choice of the package of four flat fifties or the popular Camel carton.

PRINCE ALBERT

If he smokes a pipe, a big, long-lasting pound of cool-burning Prince Albert spells smoking pleasure way into the New Year... at camp, on ship, at home. Prince Albert is choice tobacco, "no-bite" treated for mildness and "crimp cut." It's the National Joy Smoke. There's no other tobacco like it. Your local dealer has two handsome Prince Albert "specials"... the pound tin (above) or the special glass humidor jar. (The humidor itself makes a handsome gift!) Get yours today.

Guard Against Hysteria

The week now ended has been one of the most exciting in American history. It has witnessed the treacherous Japanese attack upon our territory and it has witnessed, too, a resistance so stout there has been no doubt that Japan today knows, full well, just how emphatically America is in this war.

The members of our armed forces in the East are giving grand account of themselves. Our Filipino forces have shown they can meet the Japs on equal terms and beat them. Our Marines are writing new pages of glory in the long saga of Marine Corps achievements, on Wake and Midway Islands.

With the news that is daily coming from the fighting fronts it is humanly impossible for the average person to remain normally calm. Anxiety and excitement are emotions difficult to control.

Nevertheless, unless we are to play into the enemy hands, it is imperative that we, the civilian population "back home," avoid all signs of hysteria, that we remain calm whatever comes. The American public can do just that.

Strenuous effort is being made at this time to organize a civilian defense setup in every city and town of the nation. Just what the odds are on the possibility of an enemy air attack against, for instance, Atlanta, no man can say. It would seem rather unlikely. Certainly, at this stage of the war.

Yet it cannot be denied there is a certain amount of danger that just this thing will occur. President Roosevelt, who has been shown by recent events to have been right in his judgment of world situation and possible enemy strategy, when so many were wrong, would not have caused formation of the Civilian Defense machinery, with Mayor LaGuardia, of New York, at its head, had he not thought it advisable.

No American cities, again including Atlanta, have any of the armed methods of defense against attack from the air. We have no barrage balloons, our antiaircraft guns, on home soil, are ridiculously few, at best. And we have a like scant number of home-based interceptor planes.

There remains, then, as defense against possible air attack, only the wartime blackout and the preparing of civilian volunteers to meet the emergency, if it comes, to the best of their ability.

There is no need to approach this task in any manner of hysteria. It is a difficult and lengthy job. A city cannot be organized overnight to meet such an emergency, a blackout cannot be made effective upon an hour's notice. Which provides all the more reason why we must organize and prepare as far as we can before the need arises, before enemy planes are reported speeding in our direction.

The first step in such organization for civilian defense is the enrollment of volunteers. That job begins this morning at the headquarters at 246 Peachtree street.

We are all anxious to serve as best we can. Therefore, it is wise to remember that the only effective way we can so serve is to register, to let our capacities be thus known and then to wait, calmly and without excitement, until called.

Calm preparation, to the best of our ability, is simple wisdom.

To organize and to train our citizens, even for blackout duties without considering innumerable other duties they will be called upon to fulfill, is a tremendous job that will take time. Let us, therefore, approach the job calmly and efficiently, get it done as soon as and as well as is possible and, in the meantime, remember we are Americans, not prone to panic or unworthy hysteria.

Bring Out the Scrap!

Each week, more and more is heard from the authorities about the shortage of steel for this, that and the other war purpose. Railroad car manufacturers can't get enough, and shipyards, truck builders, munitions makers and many others are hard put to acquire the needed tonnage to fulfill government contracts.

So, a few tons of scrap iron, salvaged in some unusual manner, generally makes the headlines, and doubtless should. Rescuing thirty-five hundred tons from the Tacoma Narrows bridge, which swung itself to an untimely end during an ill wind last year, was all to the good. Even two hundred and eighty-five tons, scraped together around government buildings in Washington, will make its weight felt in balancing the scales against the nation's enemies.

But why the fuss and feathers over a few paltry tons of scrap iron—save for the psychology of it—when millions of tons lie rusting on farms, in junk yards, and back yards, and automobile graveyards—everywhere—from the Atlantic ocean to the Pacific? Millions of tons waiting to be put to a useful purpose, whenever steel makers are permitted to pay the price necessary to bring it out; for experienced junk dealers—the only ones qualified for such a job—to buy it, and pay their labor to sort it and classify it, and ship it to the proper place, and not lose their shirts in the process.

The time has passed for further price quibbling over this war essential. A nation at war needs steel, millions of tons of it, and one of the ingredients lies scattered all over the country. The "$20 per ton ceiling," fixed in Washington, is evidently too low, otherwise the scrap iron would flow and help to alleviate the shortage.

If They Had Prevailed

Today, happily, there are no more isolationists, nor interventionists. In the face of real emergency, all divisions of opinion fade away and we of America all stand together, as Americans, first, last and always.

It is interesting, however, to indulge in speculations as to the conditions in which the United States would today be facing a ruthless enemy if the arguments and opinions of the hidebound isolationists had prevailed in congress.

If Taft, Vandenberg, Wheeler and their confreres had won their arguments of the past seven years, we should today have no more powerful a navy than we had in 1930. Which would have been but a sacrifice against Japan, Germany, Italy, either or all three.

We should, at this moment, have been waiting on congress to enact a bill for selective army service. Following passage of that bill it is presumed the congress would follow with appropriations to build the factories, create the machine tools, with which the first equipment to train this new army was to be made.

We should have an air force consisting of a hundred or two outmoded planes, scarcely modern enough for preliminary training of fledgling pilots.

In short, we would be lying helpless for the slaughter before a foe to whom mercy is an unknown word.

If Lindbergh and Wheeler and Taft and Vandenberg, et al., had had their way!

Hemisphere Solidarity

There is something exceptionally heartening about the manner in which other nations of the Americas have reacted to the war which has been thrust upon the United States.

Of the 20 republics to the south of us, 10 or 12 have promptly declared war, at least against Japan, some against Germany and Italy, too. The remainder have, all of them, adopted at least an attitude of benevolent neutrality toward us, while others have gone further in their promises of aid.

The work done by Secretary of State Hull and by the present administration, from President Roosevelt down, to cement the friendly relations of all the Americas, is bearing good fruit. The nations of this hemisphere realize that only in hemisphere solidarity can we all be sure of safety from outside aggression.

Perhaps some of the smaller republics of Central and South America cannot contribute much in the form of fighting men or fighting material to the common cause. Nevertheless, they can serve, invaluable, in guarding against agents for the enemy securing a foothold in their lands, against the creation of springboards from which enemy planes could leap to attack this country.

The new world war has demonstrated the true friendship and the true realization of common interests which means much for the American hemisphere, both today and for the future.

THE WORLD TODAY

By COLONEL FREDERICK PALMER.

GENERAL McARTHUR WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Great news, overshadowing all other news, comes from northern Luzon in the Philippines, which I know by tramping over it.

There our first land and air battle with the Japanese has been fought in their repulse. There that American soldier of destiny, Lieutenant General Douglas MacArthur, whom I have known since he was a captain, has come into his own.

He is seeing what many skeptics thought was a fantastic dream come true. He is seeing his faith in the Filipinos as soldiers justified.

Northern Luzon is the nearest approach to the Philippines from the Japanese colonial island of Formosa. Get that and the chain of islands between northern Luzon and Formosa and the Japanese had command of the narrow straits of the northern passage for American aid to the Philippines and Singapore.

A surprise landing in northern Luzon, remote from Manila, could be made before American and Filipino troops could reach the spot. Evidently the Japanese planned to have established a fast grip before they were under attack.

TOO BRASH But the Japanese were too brash. They have learned that two can play at the same game, once our side was informed that we were at war with Japan.

They supported their landing in northern Luzon with a heavy naval force as well as with bombers, and they did not miss the parachute trick. In spite of the misfortune of the Prince of Wales and the Repulse off Malaya they made the mistake of allowing a battleship to be without sufficient defense from bombers. They had underestimated the quality of our own air force which was outnumbered by theirs.

We still had enough planes left after the Japanese surprise attack out of the blue sky on our airbases to sink the battleship Haruna and sink and damage some Japanese transports. Underestimated, too, were MacArthur and the Filipino army whom the Japanese regarded as a rabble.

AT HEAD OF CLASS At West Point the tall MacArthur was too slender for the football team, but was on the baseball team. He was at the head of his class, and knew that he better be or he would make his proud mother and his proud father, Lieutenant General Arthur MacArthur, very unhappy.

In the A. E. F. in the course of his promotion from major to command of a brigade and then a division, all his soldiers saw him often in the trenches and in battle. He was close to them, with them in spirit.

At the close of the war he became the youngest brigadier general of regulars. Later he was the Army's youngest chief of staff in its history. As chief of staff he fought and won better living quarters fit for American soldiers in place of the antique, tumble-down barracks.

BEGAN MECHANIZATION He began the mechanization of our Army, calling for tanks and antitank guns, too, when not much attention was being paid to either. He was alive to the importance of air power in any future war. Conservatives criticized him for being too receptive to new ideas.

In the many talks I had with him I remember his saying: "My mother"—that tall soldier woman of a mother—"saw my father rise to be a lieutenant general and me to have the luck to wear a general's four stars as chief of staff." He took it for granted that his mother was quite responsible for both father and son reaching high rank.

What was he to do after he had completed his tour as chief of staff? He looked toward the Philippines where previously he had been in command of our garrisons. He foresaw the Far East as a future battleground.

When he accepted the offer to train and command a Filipino army his friends thought that the former chief of staff of the sane United States Army had gone Hollywood-minded.

NATIVES LIKED HIM But his friends agreed that if anybody could make a Filipino division equal to holding a Japanese division it was Douglas MacArthur. He had the flair. The natives liked him. He was one with them as leader and disciplinarian.

"Any naturally brave man will fight," as he once said to me, "and when trained will fight well."

He knew just what his objective was, and prepared for it. We have the result.

As for our regulars in the Philippines, oh well—I have known them fighting in the jungle and in France, and what to expect of them. If there is anybody they're hot to fight it is the Japanese.

IMMORTAL STAND We can send little aid immediately to our forces in the Philippines. They are making an immortal stand, writing a page worthy of the best traditions of our history.

In the days since their attack on us the Japanese have been learning that we are also making war on them, not only off the coast of Luzon, but off Wake Island, where our Navy has sunk a cruiser and destroyer and where our Marines still are holding out.

Today's

First Duty.

This Monday morning marks the opening of formal registration of volunteer civilians for service in the various branches of civilian defense. By this registration civilians will enlist for the duration, to do work and accept duties which will constitute an additional job to their regular employment.

Men and women alike may serve their country and their community by such registration-enlistment. It is for responsible tasks, involving hard work, much time and loyal devotion, that are, today, called upon to offer ourselves.

Some among us are so harassed to other duties we cannot contribute our services, as we would like, to the defense activities. For instance, those who must remain with young children at all hours cannot abandon that duty, which is still the most important of all.

Most of us, however, can give, daily, several hours of time, in afternoon or evening, to the duties which have, this week, become imperative. And, in registering, we must remember it is for the duration. We are enlisting to serve, just as though we were volunteering for active duty with the armed forces.

What You

Must Do.

You, as a loyal American, must go to the registration center in your city or county. There you will be interviewed by a trained registrant. Facts as to your training, capacities and desire for service will be tabulated in card form. You will be asked your preference as to the form of service you desire and advised as to which your services will be most valuable.

There is need for thousands of air-raid wardens. We must have, quickly, many auxiliary fire fighters, auxiliary police, trained first-aid people, communications specialists, organizers, messengers, nurses, nurses' aids, and so forth and so on. There is a job for each of us and we must be willing to accept that job when called and give ourselves, without thought of inconvenience, fatigue or cost, to that job.

We must tackle this job of civilian defense seriously. Just what the odds are, for instance, that enemy planes will drop bombs on Atlanta, I don't know. But we all know the possibility exists. And, if such bombing comes, the preparation we make now will spell the difference between fearful disaster and something not so serious. It will mean a tremendous difference in the totals of casualties in such a bombing—if it comes.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The opinions expressed by Mr. Pegler in this column are his own and do not necessarily represent the opinion of The Atlanta Constitution.

Confusion

Gone

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—This nation has little to thank Adolf Hitler for, but, to give the devil his due, he has relieved us of all such confusion as troubled some Americans for a long time after the first German war on the world and divided the people down to last Sunday in the present one.

This time there can be no suggestion that the international bankers or our soulless munitioneers, or merchants of death, kicked up a great war for profit. The international banker is nowhere in this situation, for the financing has been carried on directly between this government, thrice elected by the people, and our allies with the permission of the people's representatives in congress. The war was prepared and started by a nation which had stolen all the money that the suckers, in their generosity, would give or lend to set the German people on their feet and then not only repudiated all debts but accused the suckers of trying to enslave them by lavish gifts, loans and investments.

Yowling

Campaign

It was preceded by a long, yowling campaign of self-pity which wrung the hearts of Germany's late enemies and moved some sentimental historians to conclude that the Allies had been guilty of a great wrong in resisting the Kaiser's war machine from 1914 on. And while he was sobbing and bawling over the humiliations of his noble countrymen in the years after 1918, Hitler was creating another war machine embracing all the industry of the entire nation and all its manpower.

But neither our American merchants of death nor Britain's were on the job during this period. Thanks to Senator Gerald Nye, who conducted one of those circus inquiries into the munitions trade, the American merchants of death had been kicked out of the country and had applied themselves to the manufacture of household gadgets, silk stockings and other harmless devices dear to the hearts of a comfort-loving people. The merchant of death proved to be human after all and was so ashamed of his calling that he turned square, leaving us with no plant ready to turn out the tools that are used in war.

Skills

Forgotten

The skills of the workers in the war industries had died or grown dull or been dispersed when Hitler started on the job during this period. For years the long, continuous stretch of war-industry country between Providence and Baltimore was dark most of the time. The trains rushed past sagging factories with faded "for sale" signs, pleading weekly on their walls. Windows were stoned out by town kids who one day, sooner than they could realize, would be needing weapons and machines from those plants. No smoke came from the crumbling, rusty stacks of the foundries and the ways of the shipyards were empty, save for an occasional subsidized liner, tanker or a tug in to be scrapped. Jobless men camped along the right-of-way, and the United States was not only disarmed, except upon the seas, but without the equipment or the skill to manufacture or use weapons.

Britain, at the same time, had dropped her guard so deplorably that when old Chamberlain went to Munich to bow in humiliation and beg for peace, and time, the British simply couldn't take on a fight with Hitler. France had no aviation at all, the United States was much better off and Britain, too, though brave, was running a bluff which presently carried through by the magnificent few to whom Winston Churchill acknowledged the debt of the grateful many.

Roosevelt To President Roosevelt's dogged, powerful campaign against the interference of a people unaware, the United States was the fact that within the last 18 months this country has largely revived the skills of the munitions and armaments workers and prepared the nation to fight in the air before the fight is over. But it was the national government this time, not the merchants of death, that built up the war industries to their present prominence and so starting against the memory of the bleakness of those plants up to 1935 and after. The President had read Hitler's book, his speeches and his actions and anticipated, in a general way, at least, the course he would take which was unimaginable to most other statesmen and common people.

So, when Japan, with 10 years of almost continuous experience in war, started the United States at Hitler's bidding, all doubt was gone. This wasn't a bankers' war or a business promotion job of the evil munitioneers. It was a war of national defense, personal to every American, and with the week the government, itself, had been compelled to order the 24-hour day and the seven-day week and take over the abandoned trade of the merchants of death.

The United States submarine H-3 imprisoned since dawn today in the submersible which went ashore on a shoal near the entrance to Humboldt bay, were rescued tonight.

And Fifty Years Ago. From the news columns of Today, December 15, 1891: "The officers of the Young Men's Democratic League are arranging for a grand ovation for Mr. Speaker Crisp next week."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

"FIRST TEAM IN" America is laughing at the gag. "Things will turn for the better in the Pacific as soon as we put in the first team."

Yesterday I talked with a man in Washington who is close to official sources. The gist of what he had to say was this:

It will be anywhere from three to six months, nearer six, before we really begin an offensive with our full strength. We do not have supremacy in the air and enough of our ships were lost at Pearl Harbor to give the Japanese parity on the sea and an edge in the air.

If the air and naval strength we have in the Pacific is able to hold off the Japanese and keep them out of the Philippines that strength will have done more than expected. If they do this, it will mean our full offensive strength will be able to move faster.

The pessimism, which caught the country in a hard-and-fast grip after Pearl Harbor, was disturbing, yet it had the effect of sobering the nation and putting it to work.

The severe damage to many of our ships at Pearl Harbor can be repaired, but one does not repair ships in a week or a month. All this will take time, several months of time.

We haven't put in our first team. It will have to sit on the bench until more pilots are graduated, (several classes graduate next month), and until we turn out more planes.

Meanwhile, the second team, if one wishes to carry out the idea, is doing a good job. Considering the severe damage done at Pearl Harbor and in the Philippines, the job is surprisingly good since it is fought with the Japanese able to put all their available planes into the fighting. (The Russians, of course, hold some planes in Japan and in Manchuria.)

AMERICAN GENIUS A few months ago I went with eleven other newspapermen on a tour of many of America's major defense plants.

Evidence was on every hand to indicate that by January 1, to set an approximate date, America would begin producing the greatest flow of war materials the world has ever seen.

That time is at hand and the materials are beginning to flow in flood. We already are producing as many planes and engines per month as Germany.

Within six months our production will be as great as that of all the Axis nations combined.

The American industrialist has taken a beating in prestige and in critical analysis during our own economic revolution, dating from 1929.

Today we are seeing that the greatest miracle of the whole war is American industry, management and the skill of the workers. We cannot escape the fact that production will win the war. If our fleet, air force, Army and Marines can hold out until the first team is ready, the war will end just that much sooner.

Germany is rich in raw materials. But she must supply her Axis allies, Japan, Italy and all the tiny countries which have gone to war with her.

The economic surplus lies with this country and England.

The period of waiting, with its inevitable losses of ships and men, will be difficult. Morale will have its ups and downs. That will just have to be. And even with some of the regulars, so to speak, on the bench for repairs, we will score a few touchdowns.

FRENCH FLEET The United States has taken over France's prize liner, the Normandie, and a dozen more.

This will mean the Vichy government will sever relations with this country. This country knows that. It knows, too, Vichy already has promised that much to Hitler.

The French fleet will be put into action against us in the Atlantic. Indeed, its submarines already are believed in action. It is possible it may be thrown into a gigantic attempt to take the British Isles.

At any rate, it will serve to keep much of our fleet in the Atlantic. The Normandie is an interesting ship. She was built so that she can be, with a minimum of work, transformed into an airplane carrier.

Her stacks may be moved to one side. There are vents there. Her passenger decks may be lifted off and a flight deck laid down. The French built her with plane elevator shafts in the framework. Elevators may be installed with a minimum of work.

The United States can use her as a transport or make her into a carrier. The best guess would be that she will become a carrier.

At Martinique is another French airplane carrier, a few hundred United States planes, and some French and Polish gold.

A good guess would be we have our eyes closely on Martinique. If the carrier and other possessions can be taken, it will be a good haul.

If Not Removed, a Gangrenous Hand Poisons the Whole Body

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

"It is one of the old families."—News story. The family words, though understood by everybody, do not mean what they say.

No family is older than another. When we say a family is old, we mean it has long been established in the community and has been respectable for generations.

Values are fixed by comparison, and families call attention to their age in order to contrast themselves with the Johnny-comelates whose respectability is new. This may seem absurd in a land of equality, but there is logic in it.

Of course a family that has seen better days may boast of its age and ancient glories because there is nothing more recent to support its claim of superiority, but the fact remains that a family which has been respectable for generations is likely to produce respectable offspring.

Breeding counts, in people as in horses; make no mistake about that. And as a scrub farm mare and a scrub sire could never in a thousand years produce a thoroughbred like Seabiscuit, neither can a congenital criminal and a half-wit produce a great and good man.

Of course human stock can improve or degenerate. The horses that escaped from the Spanish conquerors of Mexico and multiplied on our southwestern plains were pure Arabians, yet generations of hardship destroyed their fine qualities and made them unfit for use. So our own race degenerates when living conditions are unbearably hard. It should be remembered, however, that the Arabians preserved their quality for generations, even though they lived in obscurity and their merit was unknown to the world.

There are countless families in America, obscure and humble, that are bred of good stock. Judged by any standard of excellence, except that of the snob, they are equal to the best. And any one of them, favored by chance or opportunity, may become a national leader. Proof is in the fact that many of our greatest men, including Presidents, did come of such stock.

But their high quality did not develop by magic. Parents can transmit only the qualities that are in themselves. And when we permit the mating of the feeble-minded and congenitally unfit, and when we tolerate conditions that make degeneration almost inevitable, we are insuring the production and perpetuation of stock that weakens and endangers and burdens our entire race.

OFF THE RECORD—By Ed Reed

"Pardon the intrusion, Sir—I had to get in some way to see you about that Santa Claus job!"

The writing of prescriptions by physicians is notoriously negligible—perhaps purposely, to keep the common people from trying to find out they're paying the doctor $3 and the druggist 95 cents for one-half ounce of epsom salts with a dash of peppermint. I said "perhaps."

Be that as it may, Floyd Tillery, in the Chatahooc Valley Times, tells of a man who got his money's worth from a prescription.

"Nobody could say what it was or wasn't," explains Mr. Tillery, "so this man used it twice as an invitation to dances, two years as a railroad pass, once as a pass to a football game and once as a recommendation from a former employer. And in the evenings his daughter played it on the piano."

Oldest tradition in newspaperdom is the awfulness of Horace Greeley's writing, away back in "bello wah" days. There was just one printer on the New York Tribune who could decipher it. Nothing stumped him. In his cups, as he usually was, he boasted he could read Horace's mind.

Perhaps it was Christmas Eve—or some other excuse for letting down the bars. The printers had taken on a few hot Tom and Jerry rascals. And a rooster discovered they took said rooster to the composing room, dipped his feet in ink, set him down on a sheet of copy paper and told him to start scratching for words.

Entering into the spirit of the glad festivities, the rooster did his best. He covered the copy paper with hieroglyphics.

Now the printers were all set. At that moment Mr. Greeley's one and only compositor showed up for duty—feeling high, wide and handsome.

They handed him the rooster's penmanship.

"The Old Man wants that set up and proofread and he's waiting for it," they said.

The printer took a second look. "It's tougher than usual," he remarked. "But I think I've got the gist of it."

So he stuck it over his "case" and began reaching for type. Readers of the Tribune next day said it was the best editorial on the constitution Old Man Greeley ever had written.

Incubator Babies

A simple device which may save the lives of many babies who arrived before schedule has been perfected by Dr. E. R. Watson of the State Board of Health, and is being used in a number of counties.

It is a simply built and home-made baby "incubator," to keep the infants warm—which seems to be the important thing. It may be heated by an electric lamp, if current is available, or by supplies of hot water.

As a boy I sometimes paid a dime at a fair or traveling carnival to see the babies in their incubators—tiny things, half as big as a rabbit. Incubators were elaborate and expensive then.

Afterward I wondered where those babies were found—and why their parents let them travel with a "show." It seemed cruel like exhibiting an idiot child.

But those were the only incubators available then, except in a few hospitals. Perhaps the patients were poor—and couldn't rear a child like that.

It seemed cruel to the babies—but maybe it wasn't, if they had a doctor's care. A baby of that age doesn't know whether he's in Peoria or Miami—and doesn't care a cuss.

Still, I wonder what was the death rate? And how many of those traveling show incubator

Prescriptions—and That Yarn About Horace Greeley

babies are grown-up now, married, holding down jobs, rearing babies of their own. Maybe the record hasn't been so bad.

This Christmas

Out on Peachtree near the intersection of Spring street the other day a group of country folk were unloading truckloads of Christmas trees and stacking them against a terrace in preparation for sales.

I hope they are all sold and set up in homes and that the little colored lights will twinkle as usual. I see no reason to doubt it now.

This promises to be a very fine Christmas. Not the merriest of Christmases, of course. Too many war clouds.

But we are a long way yet—I hope and trust—from bombs and blackouts. Life is going on. People must work if they would eat. And play a bit, too.

Let's all try to make this as happy and cheerful a Christmas as we can. The boys in the camps are coming home—as many as can be given leave. And they're not downhearted. They want lights and turkey and fruit cake and a party with their girls. I hope they'll get all these before they have to go back to the barracks.

Sheriff Admits He Fatally Shot Former Deputy

Long County Officer Says Victim Fired at Him First

LUDOWICI, Ga., Dec. 14.—(AP) Long County Sheriff W. M. Jones said he shot and killed William H. Sallette, former Liberty county deputy sheriff, after the latter had fired at him with a shotgun.

Jones said Sallette and a man he identified as Jacob Gordon, about 30, were having an argument on the courthouse lawn yesterday when he intervened and placed Gordon in jail for "safe-keeping."

Later, Jones said, Sallette approached the courthouse armed with a shotgun and upon seeing him, fired one time. One of the witnesses to the exchange was Bernice Sallette, son of the dead man.

Many are the times United States Marines have been a well-combed sight, but probably no leatherneck received a greater ovation than did one of the recruiting officers here late Saturday night.

More than 75 youths from Nashville and Cincinnati, who've just joined the Marines, were stranded at the Union station for about three hours, with no place to sleep and with the money allotted them for their trip to Parris Island running low. Their train was about three hours late due to an accident and they missed connections.

They had almost exhausted their supply of nickels making phone calls when finally they contacted Sergeant Carl Naman, Marine recruiting officer here. He saved the day, or rather night, for them by putting them up in a downtown hotel. The group left last night for Augusta.

There is no public road running through it. It is between the Road from this city to Decatur, and from this city to Dr. Arvey's place at Pantherville, and about equally distant from them. I could sell the property for about $10.00 per acre. I think it will improve in value, as Atlanta is destined to grow in population and trade.

I will take pleasure in serving you in the premises, to the best of my ability, should you wish me to do any thing with the property. I am very truly, G. W. Adair

HOW VALUES RISE—The text of this letter, written by George W. Adair in 1869, deals with a 100-acre tract of land in the city limits, for which he could get $10 an acre, or $1,000. Today that tract is dotted with hundreds of homes and worth approximately a million dollars.

OFFICE OF GEORGE W. ADAIR, Real Estate, Life and Fire Insurance Agent, No. 5 Rail Road Block, Peach Tree Street, Opposite National Hotel, Atlanta, Ga., 20 Jan'y 1869

GOOD OLD DAYS—Here is a reproduction of a letterhead used in 1869 by George W. Adair, Atlanta's pioneer real estate man. Note the way Peachtree street is spelled as two words and the reference to the old National hotel.

By PRESS HUDDLESTON. A tract of land lying within the city limits of Atlanta, covering about 100 acres, now a residential section of Edgewood, has increased in value approximately a thousand times within the past 73 years.

A letter to the then owner of the property, C. G. Dahlgren, written by George W. Adair, one of Atlanta's first real estate operators, on January 20, 1869, has been found among the old Adair files by Forrest Adair, grandson of the pioneer citizen.

The property in question is the south half of lot No. 208 in the 15th district of DeKalb county. The tract of 200 or more acres, while in DeKalb county, is just across Moreland avenue, and is now within Atlanta's city limits. It is bounded on the north by Hardee street, the west by Moreland avenue, the south by Fair street (now Memorial drive), and the east by Montgomery street. The south half of the land lot was approximately 100 acres, as land lots run from 200 to 230 acres or more.

Now Developed. The tract is now well built up with homes, something like 300 residences or more having been built on streets running through the property—such streets as Arkwright place, Whiteford avenue, Boulevard drive, Wylie street, Mortimer street, Battlefield avenue, Vannoy street, etc., Dahlgren street, and others. An estimated value now of all this property—

Some 30 to 40 years ago the property was developed as a subdivision—known as the Dahlgren subdivision—streets laid out and paved, and lots sold and built upon. Nearly all of it is in use now as homesites.

In the letterhead pictured it will be noted that Adair's office was mentioned as "No. 5 Rail Road block, Peach Tree street," with the Peters building stands now there was a gradual slope down Peachtree from what is now Five Points to the railroad crossing. "Opposite National Hotel" is also noted. This hotel occupied the Peachtree site of the Arcade.

Also reproduced above is a letterhead of Adair's last year, mentioning the $10 price per acre, and prophesying that "Atlanta is destined to grow in population and trade."

And so it has.

AID TO CHINA. China's agony during the past four and a half years of gallant resistance to Japan's ruthless warfare is better understood since the vicious attack of Japan upon our own people. It is estimated that at least 50,000,000 Chinese, mostly women and children, are homeless refugees today. Millions have been maimed and killed by the Japanese, not to mention those who have starved to death, and those who have died because of lack of medical care.

I have before me the report of the United China Relief Committee, up to November 15, 1941, showing contributions from this country for China in the amount of $1,559,051. In addition to the above amount, it is stated that participating agencies have received, in the same period, $643,411 for aid to China. These amounts sound very small when we consider the suffering in China, but we may be grateful that our people have given more than two million dollars for this worthy cause, and we may confidently expect larger gifts in 1942.

Commenting on the work of Christian missionaries in China during the four and half years of Japan's invasion, Ambassador Hu Shih makes this statement: "As far as I know," no missionary has deserted his post, whether he be a member of the Mission for Lepers or a medical missionary or a teacher in a mission school or an evangelist. Throughout these years many of the missions have lost their property and have suffered casualties in personnel. Some of the women workers have been sent home, or to the areas of safety. The missions have become centers of refuge for thousands, and in some cases for tens of thousands, of Chinese sufferers, particularly women, children and the aged.

"It is this spirit of service, this devotion to work, this sympathy for the cause of China's independence and freedom that has won for the missionaries the warm admiration, high respect and love of the Chinese people. And I sincerely believe that it is not proselytizing, but this truly religious spirit of service that will continue to win the sympathy and support of the entire Chinese na-

New Enrollments Bring Group Membership To 2,500.

With 700 enrollments since the opening of the downtown office last Monday—bringing the total membership of the Atlanta unit of the American Women's Voluntary Services to more than 2,500, the fourth series of lectures on Preparedness will begin January 6, at 10:30 o'clock in the Morning, side school auditorium, 1035 East Rock Springs road.

This is an orientation course designed to familiarize student volunteers with the essential community services, which must be kept operating in more or less degree at all times, and is a series of 10 lectures given by outstanding authorities in their respective fields.

Chemical Warfare Subject. This fourth preparedness course will be presented by A. W. V. S. in co-operation with the Parent-Teacher's Association of the Morningside school.

Mrs. Charles Goodwin, chairman of parent education for that school, is using this as their program for the first part of the year.

Lieutenant Colonel Richard C. Job, executive director of the Georgia Defense Council, will open the series on the all inclusive subject of "Defense." On January 9, Captain J. L. Levy, drill master and instructor in the Atlanta Fire Department, will speak on "Chemical Warfare and Incendiary Bombs."

Approximately 500 A. W. V. S. members already have finished the preparedness course and are proceeding to other training activities, while another thousand are nearing completion of this initial course. The nutrition course has been completed by 52 volunteers and 12 of that number have completed and are ready to serve in canteen work.

54 To Finish Course. In the very near future 54 members will have finished the communication course, and about the same time 26 very earnest workers, who have been studying for months on the difficult course of Advanced Map Reading, will be ready to serve if needed. Another 438 women of the Atlanta A. W. V. S. unit have reported for duty to the Civilian Defense Corps for air raid warning duty.

This foundation course on Preparedness, which is required of all members of the A. W. V. S., will be repeated each night at 7:30 o'clock for the benefit of the business and professional people. Headquarters at 16 Auburn avenue, will be open from 9 to 7:30 o'clock each week day.

PLENTY OF TRAVELING. CAMP STEWART, Ga., Dec. 14. (AP)—During the past nine months the 209th C. A. (AA) has done enough driving to encircle the globe 47 times—1,175,000 miles and only four persons injured.

Most of the students here are facing this whole thing with the true Georgia spirit. There will be a few who will not. Those we do not need here anyway. But we do need students who love Georgia and who love our university. We need students, faculty members and friends who will make personal sacrifices for this institution, for Georgia and for free education. We need students who will prepare to help win the peace. We have such students now and we will have others. We need faculty members who will teach these students and who will work to win the war and the peace. We have such faculty members now and they will remain with us.

If our conditions of political interference are corrected a part of our fight will be won. We will regain our accredited standing. Students here will fight for the restoration of our academic freedom. But only the people of Georgia can restore it. Governor Talmadge has already proven that he will not. If he is elected to a four-year term as Governor a large part of our fight will be lost. If Ellis Arnall is elected our fight for restoration of academic freedom will be virtually won.

NO DOUBTS ON FINAL RESULT OF CONFLICT

Editor, Constitution: My vocation brings me in contact with many people in different localities. Many contacts have been made since Sunday, December 7, the eventful day our nation was attacked by an enemy nation.

The most common reaction noted has been the number of people who appear to have reached a quick conclusion in their own minds that we, as a nation, are incapable of defending ourselves—based upon the early progress which has been recorded by the enemy nation.

Is it not advisable to remind all peoples of our nation we have had no previous experience fighting a war of the type and nature this present conflict reflects—and, at least a reasonable time, must elapse before our Army—our Navy—our Marines and all other military factors, can fear our activities in step with this new, to us, type of warfare?

That factor alone seems to preclude any possibility of this being a war of short duration.

There seems little, if any, justification for "hysterics" or other forms of doubt or indecision as to our long range ability not only to defend ourselves adequately, but to eventually emerge from this conflict victoriously—regardless of early results scored!

FIGHT FOR UNIVERSITY MUSTN'T BE FORGOTTEN

Editor, Constitution: In this time of national crisis it is necessary for us in Georgia to face realistically the situation of education here. We must remember, first of all, that we are Americans, and that we owe our first and foremost allegiance to the United States.

We will not fail to respond to any request of our government as we go about the tasks necessary to attain the absolute victory.

But we must not forget that after this war is won we must also win the peace. To win that peace we must have trained men and women, educated in free institutions. And we must also have strong and free educational institutions after the war. Therefore, we must not forget now the crisis in Georgia education. We must remember that that, too, is a part of our duty to our nation. Where it does not conflict with our duties of a national nature, we must continue to work for Georgia and for free education.

After the Japanese invasion of our territory last Sunday little was said on the university campus regarding our suspension by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, until Wednesday when President Hammond W. Caldwell addressed the student body on that matter and on the war situation. The students know the facts now. I wish that all the people of Georgia could have heard President Caldwell's talk, particularly those who have sons and daughters in the university.

Cavite Morale Is Praised By Commandant

Casualties Low in Attack as Discipline Is Maintained.

MANILA, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Francis Rockwell, commandant of the Cavite navy yard, said today casualties there during a sustained 40-minute Japanese bombing attack on Wednesday were "extremely low."

Fire-fighting was seriously hampered, he said, because the first bomb struck the Cavite powerhouse.

The commandant took shelter in an air-raid ditch.

"Near me," he said, "were two Filipino yard workers, one of whom was killed and the other injured seriously. Both men were calm and in their assigned place for air raids."

Rockwell, who lost all his possessions in the fire, praised Navy and Marine officers and enlisted men stationed at the yard.

"They did their duty in accordance with the best traditions of our services," he said. "Special tribute is due the yard's Filipino workmen and the Navy's insular force. My cook was killed. He had been permitted to go home to evacuate his family, had returned on time and was at his post when he was killed."

Pacific War Emergency Stresses Big Need for Red Cross Funds

Atlantans, DeKalb Counties Urged to Make Contributions Now to Fill Call For $344,000.

The American Red Cross was prepared for any emergency when bombs brought war to the Pacific. This was the cheering news that came to Atlanta yesterday from Washington, national headquarters of the organization which through the years has come to be known as the "angel of mercy," as Fulton and DeKalb counties set themselves for a combined drive for War Relief and Roll Call funds totaling $344,000.

While Atlantans and DeKalb counties were urged by Red Cross leaders here to make their contributions before actual solicitation for the drive begins Thursday, it was learned that in Manila and Honolulu, the Red Cross was set to meet first aid, evacuation and other problems of the civilian population the moment Japanese bombs rained down.

Food Problem In Manila Rises For Red Cross

All Resources in War Zone Being Used; Help Needed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The Philippine Red Cross reported to headquarters here today that evacuation of Manila and other areas in the island war zone was proceeding, but that feeding of refugees was becoming a major problem.

A cable from Charles Foster, manager of the Philippine Red Cross to Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American organization, said the Red Cross there was using all resources available and needed a "substantial appropriation soon." Davis replied that all possible assistance would be given. The national Red Cross has inaugurated a drive to raise a $500,000 war relief fund.

Foster reported that "our emergency services have stood the test, our staff is showing discipline, loyalty and courage."

He also said that a shipment of 1,200 tons of cracked wheat, en route to China, had been diverted to the Philippines and, with the co-operation of the Army, was being used to meet some of the food problems.

His organization has 10 50-bed first aid stations in operation, three in Manila.

Knox Returns To Washington From Hawaii

Report On Damage of Attack To Be Made Today.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Secretary of the Navy Knox returned tonight from a flying inspection trip to Hawaii with a first-hand report for President Roosevelt on the damage done by Japan's surprise attack last one week ago.

The President, after putting in a busy day at work in his study on problems posed by the war, was said by White House attaches to have retired around 10 o'clock at night. They added that Knox's report was reserved for tomorrow. Meanwhile Knox was not available to interviewers.

The Navy Department announced the secretary's return with the following statement: "Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox returned Sunday evening to Washington, D. C."

"The secretary arrived shortly after nine o'clock at night. 'No statement will be made.' 'Mr. Roosevelt conferred during the day with Secretary of War Stimson and James V. Forrestal, acting Navy secretary in Knox's absence, and worked on the speech he will deliver tomorrow night in connection with the anniversary of the Bill of Rights.

In congress, there was general expectation that the chief executive would make some forthright statement on what had happened at Pearl Harbor, once he has had time to analyze the Navy secretary's report. Mr. Roosevelt promised in his fireside chat last week that the public would be given as full information about military developments as was consistent with safety.

Norris Statement. Congress, having recovered from the shock of the first bad news from Hawaii, indicated little disposition to be critical now of the Army and Navy high command in the Pacific.

On that point, Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, said neither the public nor congress should try to direct the war. "It's silly for the senate or house to try and run the Army and Navy," Norris told reporters. "I think what happened at Pearl Harbor was the most humiliating thing in our Naval history but it sometimes takes a jolt on the chin to jar us into a fighting mood."

Norris said he hoped experts were wrong in forecasting a lengthy war with the Axis powers, adding that his opinion was more optimistic.

Asleep at Pearl Harbor. "We apparently were sound asleep at Pearl Harbor but I know we're awake now," he said. "This may not be as long a pull as some people say."

The White House said President Roosevelt probably would send congress tomorrow a chronology of Japanese-American relations, giving full details of the events leading up to the war.

Mr. Roosevelt also is expected to send to the capitol this week a report on lend-lease operations. It was indicated this would go up Tuesday.

"What do you think about the war?" a department store Santa Claus here was asked yesterday. "I'm all for it," he replied, "and the quicker we can finish the Japanese the better."

"Why do you say that?" he was quizzed. "Because the Japanese do not believe in Santa Claus," he said.

Domei Writer Denounces Jap Attack on U. S.

Ex-Correspondent Says He Will Enlist in Armed Forces

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Clarke H. Kawakami, for seven years a correspondent for Domei, the official Japanese news agency, today denounced Japan's treacherous attack on the United States as "the blackest and most shameful page in Japanese history."

Kawakami, an American citizen born in the United States and educated at Harvard University, resigned as Domei's correspondent when he received news of the Japanese attack on Hawaii.

Today he informed newspaper colleagues in a letter that he planned to enlist in the American army to do his bit toward "crushing forever" the type of "militarist rule which drugs and drags peaceful people into war, wherever it exists."

This letter was made public by the State Department. "It seems clear," he wrote, "that throughout the last two months, since (General) Tojo became premier, Japan's mind was already made up for war, and that she kept up the pretense of negotiating with this country only in order to gain time for the completion of her war preparations."

"That shameful double-dealing, coupled with the equally shameful manner in which she launched her attacks on Sunday, without warning, indicates how completely the militarists in Tokyo have gone over to the methods of Hitler and the Nazis. Not only I but my father, too, feel that these acts constitute the blackest and most shameful page in Japanese history."

His father, K. K. Kawakami, a Japanese subject, has resided in the United States for 40 years, writing for Japanese and American newspapers and magazines, and is the author of several books. Kawakami Sr. was taken into custody for questioning and is under detention by the immigration service at Gloucester City, N. J. Mrs. Kawakami is an American.

William Lee Hardwick, Machinist, Dies At 64

William Lee Hardwick, 64, machinist, of 700 Hill street, S. E., died late Saturday in a private hospital.

He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. W. G. Burnett and Mrs. A. K. Morris; three sisters, Mrs. Rich Pendle, Mrs. W. L. Owen, and Mrs. W. J. Quinn, and two brothers, George and E. A. Hardwick, of Jacksonville, Fla.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Baptist Tabernacle, with the Rev. Paul S. James and the Rev. E. M. Altman officiating. The body will lie in state from 2 to 3 o'clock. Graveside rites in West View cemetery will be under the direction of Local No. 1, International Order of Machinists.

Italian General Killed In Russia, Rome Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The Rome radio said today that Brigadier General Ugo Carols fell in action Friday while leading his Turin division "to another victory" on the Russian front. This broadcast was heard by CBS.

London earlier heard the Rome radio say that Carols had fallen on the African front, the sixth of Mussolini's generals to be killed in action in this war. The report heard by CBS, however, appeared to be a rectified version.

21-35 Group To Fill Present Needs of Draft

Hershey Warns Against Any Hysteria Over New Plan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—War Department officials made clear today that it would be a long time—perhaps never—before any men outside the 21-35 age group are drafted for the Army despite the proposal to require all aged 18 to 64, inclusive, to register.

Brigadier General Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, warning against any "hysteria," in connection with the draft extension, said there was no way of telling when it might be necessary to tap the reservoir of men outside the 21-35 group.

"We can meet the situation today and tomorrow with the present draft age limits of 21 to 35," Hershey said.

Secretary of War Stimson requested congress last week to enact legislation for the registration of all men from 18 to 64, inclusive, and making those from 19 to 44, inclusive, subject to military training and service. This registration, Hershey said, would apply to 41,000,000 men, including the 17,500,000 who already have registered.

But the program as of today, Hershey explained, calls for the induction of the remaining 1,000,000 in the 21 to 27 age brackets, then eligibles in the group from 28 to 35 will be called up, and next the 1,000,000 who become 21 each year.

"Having done that, you ought to have a full year's supply of men," Hershey said.

In the meantime, there will be a continuing re-examination of men deferred because of dependency, employment in vital defense industries and minor physical disabilities.

Senator Urges Program For Small Industries

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Senator Murray (D., Mont.) urged a "bits and pieces" program today to make greater wartime use of production facilities of small business and industry.

The chairman of the Senate Committee studying problems of small business said "What the British did after Dunkirk we can do after Pearl Harbor. The British organized the bits and pieces program, called in small businesses and enormously increased British war production."

Essentially, the British "bits and pieces" program was an effort to get small industrial establishments busy turning out parts and pieces for warplanes and other weapons.

London Experiences 'Practice' Air Alarm

LONDON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Air raid sirens sounded in the London area this evening for the first time since November 1 but the all clear followed quickly.

Gallup Poll Reveals: Public Needs Air Raid Training

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 14.—One of the major problems of the Civilian Defense Administration will be to school the population in the proper measures to take in case of air raids.

To discover how much information the public has at this early stage, the American Institute of Public Opinion has undertaken a special survey of the eastern coast and the western coast of the United States—the areas where air raids would be likely to come first, if at all. Interviewing was completed in the space of 12 hours by resident interviewers for the Institute and the results sent in by teletype.

Bombing Expected. The first question put to people in principal cities along the eastern and western seaboard was whether they think that their area will be bombed.

Although the United States is fighting in the Pacific alone at the moment, the people in the east are almost as apprehensive of possible air raids as the people along the west coast.

The results follow: "Do you think there is any chance that your city will be bombed?"

Gob Who Tore Swastika Wants Back in Navy

Escapade Resulted in Discharge on Misconduct Charges.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Dec. 14.—(AP)—The sailor who was dismissed from the United States Navy for tearing down a Nazi swastika from the German consulate in San Francisco last January has applied for re-enlistment.

Recruiting Officer Charles Mitchell said today that Harold J. Sturtevant, 20, wants to join again. Sturtevant was not given a dishonorable discharge, but left the Navy in charges of misconduct.

Sturtevant, a resident of Haverhill, joined a shipmate and four youths in climbing to the ninth-floor windows of the consulate in a downtown building and ripped the flag from its staff.

Linder Attacks Milk Regulations

Low prices to milk producers and unnecessary sanitary regulations, Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder said yesterday have retarded the growth of the dairy industry in Georgia.

Until recently, he said, state farmers were receiving "as low as 11, 13, 14 and 16 cents per gallon" for whole milk which was retailing in Atlanta for 15 cents a quart. The wholesale price has now been raised to 30 cents a gallon, he said.

One of the "greatest obstacles to the dairy business in Georgia," Linder said, was the fact that those in authority had been forcing all Georgia farmers who produced milk to comply with the sanitary regulations requisite to the sale of grade A milk. He asserted that "the ice cream, ice cream mix, cheese, powdered milk, skimmed milk, etc., which we buy from out of the state is made from grade B milk," which can be produced much cheaper than grade A milk.

Chamblee Band At McDonough

The 52-piece Chamblee School Band will appear at 7:30 o'clock tonight at McDonough school auditorium in a program to be featured by the presentation of the United States, Great Britain, and Georgia flags.

Representatives of the Army, Navy, Marines and State Defense Corps will take part in the colorful and moving ceremony. Dr. R. C. Edwards, director of the band, said last night. Songs to be featured are "The Star-Spangled Banner," "God Save The King," and "Georgia." Half of the proceeds will go into a fund for replacing the Chamblee school building, recently destroyed by fire. The Chamblee band will present programs Thursday at Norcross and Sunday at Lawson General Hospital.

Minister Resigns; Opposed to War

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The Rev. John Haynes Holmes, noted cleric and for almost 35 years pastor of the Community church, tendered his undated resignation today after telling his congregation he could not use his ministry "to bless, sanction, or support war."

The Rev. Mr. Holmes said his resignation had been given to the church's board of trustees to be accepted "at such time in the uncertain future as my retirement may preserve this beloved church from embarrassment, odium or peril."

The 62-year-old minister, a director of the American Civil Liberties Union and active in civic and philanthropic affairs, asserted that the American people were not guiltless in a war which he described as "the final outrage" to the will of God.

All 137 French Captives Are Returned by Italy. VICHY, Unoccupied France, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The French announced today that the Italian government had returned all 137 of them.

The prisoners, one officer and 136 noncommissioned officers and soldiers, already have returned to French soil.

Request Film To Be Run By Emory Theater

'Grand Illusion,' French Production, To Be Shown Today.

The prize-winning French motion picture production, "Grand Illusion," will play a special request run at the Emory theater, opposite the Emory University campus, today.

Featured in this movie, which has won universal critical acclaim, are Eric von Stroheim and Jean Gabin. Also on the program is the "March of Time."

The Emory theater is turning over all profits to the American Red Cross for an indefinite time as Owner Danny Demetry's contribution to national defense.

England Is Not Like a Nation At War, Atlantan Writes Back

Says Streets Full of People Day and Night; Food Good But Meats Lacking; Tea Drunk Six Times a Day.

(Editor's Note: The following is a letter from the war zones of England written by an Atlantan, C. W. Jones, who in November sailed for the British Isles as a member of the Civilian Technical Corps to help the British in the production battle. His letter, written under date of November 26, reached Atlanta yesterday after having passed the censor. This is the first personal account from an Atlanta civilian who has traveled in a convoy to England and has seen the destruction of German bombs there. As other American observers before him, he is impressed by English morale.)

By C. W. JONES.

BOURNEMOUTH, England.—(By Mail)—After a nice trip across, spending 14 days on ocean with no excitement, I arrived in England. For the last six days of the trip we slept in our clothes with life belts close and have the I have seen some of the places in Liverpool, London, Southampton and on the cliff at Bournemouth that have caught my eye.

A land mine dropped on the cliff at Bournemouth and did some damage. I heard my first air-raid warning in Liverpool. As I had just gone to bed, I did not worry about getting up, for I thought it would be as safe there as anywhere else.

Friendly Greeting.

It sure makes you feel good to go down the streets and have the people greet you with "Good morning, America." All the people want to know how the United States feels and if they are coming in the war.

The King and Queen came to Bournemouth to review us, and we sure got a good hand from the people as we were marching down the streets. We have the uniform of the RAF.

You never would know this country is at war. The streets are full of people day and night. I have gotten used to the blackouts to some extent.

The food here is O. K., but not much meat. Horse meat is not so bad after you have eaten it and did not know it was horse meat. While you were eating. There is one thing you get regularly six times a day—tea. Have not had a cup of coffee since I got off the ship.

Meats Displayed in Open. The stores display their meats out in the open, under no glass showcase and not on ice. I have not seen any ice in butcher shops here.

The homes of Bournemouth keep up their flower gardens and the people here have some of the prettiest rock gardens I ever have seen. The parks are well kept.

You can't buy even a handkerchief here without a chit. Cigarettes have so much salt peter in them that they are not much good for smoking.

The women all ask us if we brought any silk stockings with us. What a home you could win with a few pairs!

There is always a line for the shows here. More than there is on Saturday back home. There is still the old bulb-type auto horn in use here.

Bicycles Numerous. There is not a place in the United States with as many bicycles as in Bournemouth. All the kids ask if we have any United States stamps when they see the U. S. A. on the shoulder straps of our coats.

The pubs (bars) open here at 11 and close at 2:30 and reopen at 5 and close at 9:30. You can't buy a bottle. All you can get is a drink. (An eye full for a shilling.)

They sure could use some good Atlanta barbers here. You tell them how you want your hair cut and they cut it like they want to. There was a bunch of our boys that left for the British Isles the day after I sailed that were lost at sea (19 of the C. T. C.). Well, when I signed up, I felt that I would return to the United States, and I still have that feeling.

You can pick up many bargains by picking up and reading the Want Ad pages of The Constitution.

ANOTHER LOSS FOR 'JERRY'—A hardy British infantryman hurries into battle position on the desert sands of Libya, passing a burning Axis tank en route. Recent dispatches from the Libyan front report extensive British victories over the mechanized legions of German Commander Rommel.

Youth, Accidentally Shot, Is Admitted to Hospital

A wounded youth who rushed into a drugstore and said he was shot in a burglary later told police he injured himself accidentally when a .22-caliber rifle was discharged against a bedpost in his home.

The youth identified himself as Newton Kenneth Moore, 19, of 748 Confederate avenue, S. E. He was admitted to Grady hospital, suffering from a gunshot wound of the left arm which fractured the limb.

He was taken to the hospital by Harold Sorrell, clerk in a drugstore at Confederate and Ormeau avenues. Moore said he did not want his mother to know what had actually happened.

Rally Pledges Loyalty, Unity

"larger—the pantry—of democracy as well as its arsenal," he asserted. "Agricultural states like Georgia, he said, must 'see that the stomachs of our soldiers and sailors are amply filled.'"

Confidence in Army. Calling agriculture "the backbone of our existence," the Governor said "we will be called on to increase the production of dairy products, beef, pork, fruits and vegetables; also cotton, peanuts and sugar. To do this we must improve our pastures. We must provide more canneries. Our surplus and waste products must be utilized through scientific skill."

Although foreseeing that "many sad and trying days may lie ahead," the governor said he had "utter confidence" in the nation's armed forces. "They are Americans. They are flesh of our flesh, blood of our blood and bone of our bone. They come from a nation that never has been vanquished and that never will taste final defeat."

Fight for Peace. State Superintendent of Schools M. D. Collins asserted "there can be no doubt of the righteousness of the cause for which we fight today. In its ultimate, we fight for peace—for a peace of justice."

The Japanese assault on Hawaii a week ago, he said, "illustrates that tyranny learns nothing and is un-angking. Its method is the method of brute force and of sudden assault. It cannot, and will never, learn or understand the process of education or the wisdom of peace."

He pledged the efforts of the State's Educational Department and all its schools to winning the war and said one of the duties of Georgia educators would be "to install into the hearts of young Georgians the lessons of freedom—and the lesson of loyalty to democracy and our country."

Governor Pledged Aid. United States Attorney Lawrence S. Camp, who preceded the Governor, pledged himself to work with the Governor in furthering plans and work of defense.

Another speaker was Miss Lucy Randolph Mason, representing the CIO, who pledged her organization to do all in its power to prosecute the war to a successful conclusion.

George L. Googe, representing the AFL, assured the audience the AFL would work seven days a week, 24 hours a day to carry out the commands of the leaders of the state and nation.

"We say to the Governor, 'You give the orders and we will carry them out,'" he said.

Complete Unity Urged. Marion Allen, collector of internal revenue, urged purchase of defense savings bonds and stamps, while Judge Blanton Fortson, of Athens, made a plea for complete

Present Clash Seen More Than Battle of Guns Opportunity Donation Will Help Family Become Independent

Opportunity No. 8

Private Charity Need Greater Today Than Ever Before

By FRANK DRAKE.

The need for contributing to private charity is greater today than ever before, Atlantans.

Your Christmas gift of money to the Opportunity fund has a better chance of putting men and women back on their feet right now than in the peaceful past—because there are more jobs opening up and work is more important.

If we can but help Atlanta's neediest families over their worst bumps, help them where disaster has struck, they will become self-supporting and chances are high they will forever remain independent.

Remember to Give.

Small donations could take care of many of these deserving Opportunity families, but Christmas presents to the poor from Atlantans have been coming in very slowly.

Remember to give! People often say, "Sure, I'll help this year," and then let that good resolution slip from their minds. Tie a string around your finger to remind you, if that is necessary!

Some help came yesterday for Richard, your Opportunity No. 1, who is a 14-year-old boy. His mother is in a hospital for the mentally ill and his father is dead. His grandmother simply hasn't the $15 a month needed to properly care for Richard.

$1 a Month Pledged.

Mrs. Elizabeth D. Brooks and Mrs. J. F. Amend Jr., who have helped many Opportunity families in the past, pledged $2 a month toward support of Richard in 1942. That cuts the sum needed to but $13 a month, and one month's support has been given by two young boys in Valdosta already. Quite a number of Atlantans could give one month's support to this 14-year-old school boy, or pledge a few dollars a month to help him.

Won't you try this Christmas? Help some one of the Opportunity families by sending a contribution, however large or small, to the Opportunity fund, which is sponsored by The Constitution in co-operation with the Family Welfare Society. Address your gift to Hugh H. Trotter, vice president and business manager of The Constitution. It is treasurer of the Opportunity fund. Do it now!

RED CROSS DRIVE.

McDONOUGH, Ga., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Henry County chapter of the American Red Cross, states that a telegram asking for an additional donation of $1,500 has been received from headquarters. A special committee, headed by J. E. Hooten, George C. Alexander, T. O. Asbury, and subcommittees representing every section of the county will handle the drive.

When a woman becomes a mother, she should have the joys and the heartbreaks of raising her child.

She should have the right to thrill inwardly at that quick, questioning look of a child just learning things unheard of before. She should have the joy of advising a formal mind—she should know the feeling of motherhood's protectiveness—she should always know the love of her child, from the time of clinging, moist fingers to the quiet solid love of adulthood.

Case of Mrs. A.

Mrs. A., has not had all that. Mrs. A., who is your Christmas Opportunity No. 8, is 35, and the mother of a 14-year-old daughter. She is a beauty operator, part time. She hasn't earned enough to keep her daughter with her for the past six years. Her daughter, Helen, lived in an orphanage, until, recently, from the time she was eight.

A month ago Mrs. A. brought her home—not because she had a lot of money to care for her with, but because she couldn't stand to have her daughter away from her any longer. Six long years away, with only a few scattered visits—no way for a mother or a daughter to live.

The Family Welfare Society workers, who co-operate with The Constitution in presenting the Opportunity families each Christmas, believe that Mrs. A. will within a short time be able to support them both. Helen is in school here, and making good, and her mother is proud of her. That, in itself is hopeful, and worthwhile.

Needs $15 a Month.

But in addition, Mrs. A., now that she has assumed again the care of Helen, is filled with ambition. Her employer has promised to give her the first full time job in the beauty parlor and she is attempting to qualify herself for it so that she will be as much a success in business as Helen is in school.

Right now, Mrs. A. and Helen need only $15 a month to see them through. These "balance wheel" dollars will make them both happy this Christmas and all the year until Mrs. A. is able to go it alone. They have a mighty good chance to be entirely self-supporting and together as mother and daughter should be—with a little help from you.

The Life of Our Lord -- By Charles Dickens

said, "Oh wicked servant, I forgave you, why did you not forgive your fellow-servant?" And because he had not done so, his master turned him away with great misery. So," said Our Saviour, "how can you expect God to forgive you, if you do not forgive others?" This is the meaning of that part of the Lord's Prayer, where we say "Forgive us our trespasses"—that word means faults—"as we forgive them that trespass against us."

People Listened.

And He told them another story, and said: "There was a certain farmer once, who had a vineyard, and he went out early in the morning, and agreed with some labourers to work there, all day, for a penny. And by and by, when it was later, he went out again and engaged some more labourers on the same terms; and by and by went out again; and so on, several times, until the afternoon. When the day was over, he agreed with those who had been working since morning to give them all the same money as themselves, and they said it was not fair. But the master said, 'Friend, I agreed with you for a penny; and it is less money to you, because I give the same money to another man?'

Our Saviour meant to teach them by this, that people who have done good all their lives long will go to Heaven after they are dead. But that people who have been wicked, because their being miserable, or not having parents and friends to take care of them when young, and who are truly sorry for it, however late in their lives, and pray God to forgive them, will be forgiven and go to Heaven, too. He taught His Disciples in these stories, because He knew the people liked to hear them, and would remember what He said better, if He said it in that way. They are called Parables—THE PARABLES OF OUR SAVIOUR; and I wish you to remember that word, as I shall soon have some more of these parables to tell you about.

The people listened to that our Saviour said, but were not agreed among themselves about Him. "The Pharisees and the Jews," He said, "spoke to some of them against Him, and some of them were inclined to do Him harm and even to murder Him. But they were afraid, as yet, to do Him harm, because of His goodness, and His looking so divine and great although He was very simply dressed, almost like the poor people—that they could hardly bear to meet His eyes."

Story of Stones.

One morning He was sitting in a place called the Mount of Olives, teaching the people who were all clustered around Him. Listening and learning attentively, when a great noise was heard, and a crowd of Pharisees, and some other people like them, called Scribes, came running in, with great cries and shouts, dragging among them a woman who had done wrong, and they all cried out together, "Master! Look at this woman. The law says she shall be pelted with stones until she is dead. But what say you? What say you?"

Jesus looked upon the noisy crowd attentively, and knew that they had come to make Him say the law was wrong and cruel; and that if He said so, they would make it a charge against Him and would kill Him. They were ashamed and afraid as He looked into their faces, but they still cried out, "Come! What say you, Master? What say you?"

Jesus stooped down, and wrote His finger in the sand on the ground. "He that is without sin among you, let him throw the first stone at her." As they read this, looking over one another's shoulders, and as He repeated the words to them, they went away, one by one, ashamed, until not a man of all the noisy crowd was left there; and Jesus Christ and the woman, hiding her face in her hands, alone remained.

Then said Jesus Christ, "Woman, where are thine accusers? Hath no man condemned thee?" She answered, trembling, "No, Lord." "Then," said Our Saviour, "neither do I condemn thee. Go! And sin no more!"

Maybe a Friend Will Give You a Tiny Victor Radio, Just Like This

It's Flyweight Latest Model Seen at Rich's

Distributed Wholesale by Yancey Company, Inc., on Peachtree.

By PRESS HUDDLESTON.

Who wouldn't smile, right here at Christmas, if a handsome young lady were to hand you the latest RCA Victor Flyweight Portable battery and electrically operated radio set, just as the young lady in the picture herewith is doing?

Well, that's Miss Mildred Merkl, originally of Birmingham, latest addition to the Delta Air Lines, and the youngest and declared to be the prettiest stewardess of them all, handing this wonderful little Victor Flyweight radio to R. B. Shelly, manager of the radio department of Rich's, one of the leading department stores of the south.

Of course, you are perhaps keeping your eyes on the pretty young stewardess as you look at the picture. But now, look at the radio she is handing Mr. Shelly—even if you don't look at him. It is the new Victor Flyweight model. The styling is of streamlined appearance, small size, "Coverlight" case made by a new RCA Victor molding process, strong, sturdy, durable; six tubes, three-gang condenser, a stage of tuned radio frequency, a new roll type front, completely covering the controls and giving the smart appearance of expensive luggage when closed; genuine leather saddle-stitched handle, metal grill with provision for

Mount Nursery Riot of Color For Christmas

Floral Decorations in Abundance at College Park Nursery.

Just a glimpse of the great array of blooming poinsettias and other beautiful potted plants in the hothouses of the Mount Nursery, at College Park, would indicate there would be no scarcity of handsome floral decorations hereabouts for the Christmas season.

Five big greenhouses of the nursery, located at 411 W. Rugby street, evidence the anticipation of a floral Christmas held by C. M. Mount, owner and manager. Just now he has thousands of poinsettias in bloom, and other thousands will be "blooming" in time for Christmas. They make a beautiful carpet of red in the long glass-covered houses.

Scores of these poinsettias and other plants have been selected for local retail distribution by stores and florists, and in addition Mr. Mount will give service on various types of plants to individuals who will call or phone for such floral decorations as desired.

In addition to poinsettias, the nursery is showing a large growth of begonias and primrose potted plants, all in beautiful bloom, for the Christmas holidays.

Among his big offerings are also a large variety of dish gardens. These are especially attractive for holiday gifts, as they include miniature logs, vases and various small articles with growing plants.

The Mount Nursery offers a complete floral service for any and all occasions—for banquets, dinners, home decorations, "nerals" or any occasion in which flowers or floral designs may be required. The nursery covers approximately 25 acres, and is well utilized by Mr. Mount in the growing of shrubbery and plants and flowers of practically all descriptions.

Mr. Mount is a man of long experience in the growing and handling of flowers. For more than 40 years that has been his business. He was connected many years ago for long periods with some of the leading and outstanding florists in this city and section. For 20 years he has conducted his nursery at College Park, and has built up a large business as the result of his long and practical experience and his courteous and dependable service to the public.

Drive out any day and see the great effusion of blooming plants and flowers in the Mount's place at West Rugby street, College Park.

FINE FOOD AND LOTS OF IT—Here is shown a portion of the big Municipal Market on Edgewood avenue, loaded with finest vegetables, meats, sea foods and general groceries for the Christmas season.

Some Fine Food for the Body And Some 'Food for Thought'

Miss L. A. Lang, Municipal Market, Gives a Health Lecture.

There is always something unique and unusual going on down Edgewood avenue at the Municipal Market. Just now it is not only offering food for defense—for people need the best of food to keep them in the best of condition these days—but Miss Eula Lang, market manager for many years, has other reminders for those who love good things to eat. She embraces in the following paragraph some "food for thought," which it would be well for Atlanta folks to keep in mind. Miss Lang expresses it this way: "Vim, Vigor, Vitality and Victory can all be achieved in our defense program by healthy bodies and alert minds. Well-fed people are healthy and alert. Vegetables and fruits that are freshest and most colorful are full of health-giving properties. Add to vegetables and fruits the meats, cereals, seafood, sweets and beverages to round out a well-balanced menu, and the body should be strong and vigorous. Remember just eating food is not sufficient—a person can eat heartily and become anaemic because of improper food. Our bodies are limited in their growth and health by what is given them on which to exist." Then she goes on to say—and she is right in her suggestion—that the freshest, most healthful foods are obtainable at the Municipal Market in bountiful, beautiful abundance. As Christmas and the season of giving draws near, a basket of fine foods is a good suggestion as a most acceptable and highly appreciated gift. These are good "food for thoughts" and you'll be happy for Christmas if you follow them.

How About a Junior Scout Motorcycle for an Ideal Christmas Gift?

Ted Edwards Has Big Stock Of Wheel Goods

See Indian Motorcycles, Sales, Inc., at No. 624 Spring Street.

By PRESS HUDDLESTON.
What finer Christmas gift could one make to a friend who likes the thrill of a ride through the country, spinning along Georgia highways, than the gift of an up-to-the-minute motorcycle?

Ted Edwards, famous motorcycle racer and president of Indian Motorcycle Sales, Inc., now located at 624 Spring street, declares he is now showing the largest stock of motorcycles, motorbikes, and such type of wheel goods, he has ever been able to offer the public.

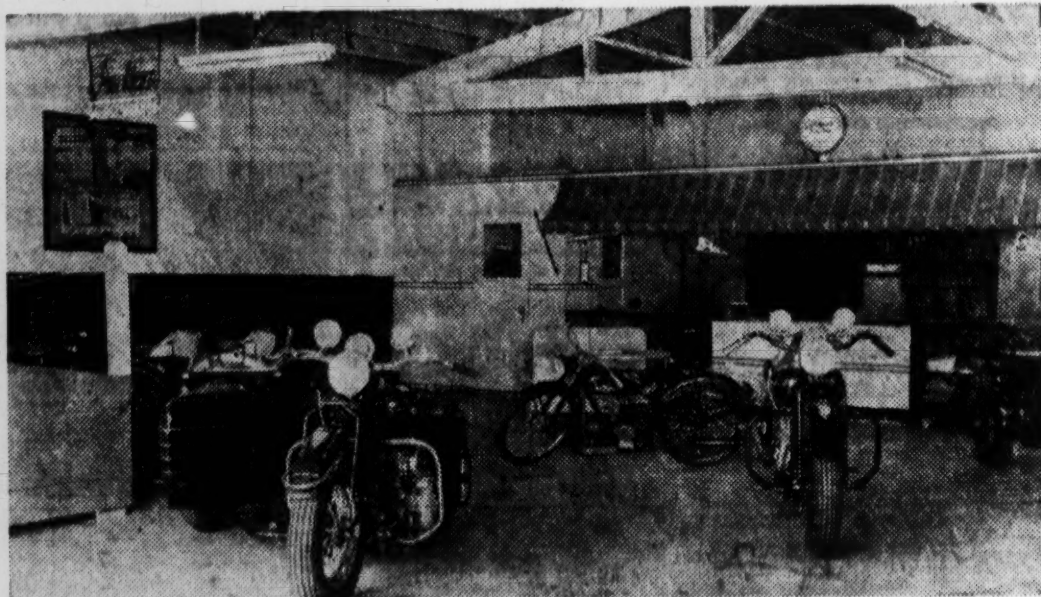

"We are very lucky to have on our floor at the present time a good supply of new models, which will enable us to give immediate delivery on any model desired," says Edwards.

They show three sizes of motorcycles. First, the small Junior Scout, which makes a nice unit for a youngster or anybody who is learning to ride. This is the motorcycle that most girls choose to ride because of its lightness and easy handling ability. This model has a top speed of only 55 miles per hour, but will give 70 miles to a gallon of gas. This is the least expensive motorcycle on the market.

The next model is the medium size, which is the Indian Scout. This model has a 45 cubic inch displacement motor. This is a wonderful all-round machine for all sorts of delivery service, also is light and easy to handle. This model gives around 55 or 60 miles to a gallon of gas and has a top speed of approximately 90 miles per hour. And then, of course, they have the Indian Chief or Police Special, which has 74 cubic inch motor and will give gas mileage from 40 to 50 miles to the gallon.

"We believe, at this time, that the motorcycle business will help do its part in national defense because with the purchase of these machines people can get back and forth to work, who live in the suburbs, on less than half their gas consumption, and still have enough gas left in their quota to take the family to ride on Sunday afternoon in the automobile."

Along with motorcycles, the concern still continues to carry a full line of motorbikes. These little motorbikes are manufactured in New Orleans, La., and are called servi-cycles. They will run 100 miles on a gallon of gas. These make exceptionally nice units for Western Union and drug store delivery service, also a nice little machine for the boy or girl just graduating from bicycle."

MOTORCYCLES, MOTORBIKES—A glance at Indian Motorcycle Sales, Inc., on Spring street, where Ted Edwards is showing a fine selection of wheel goods.

FEED MANUFACTURERS—Above shows two trucks of the North Georgia Wholesale Company, Cornelia, Ga., loading feeds manufactured by the Standard Milling Company, at their Atlanta mill. The Standard Milling Company ships feeds by truck and rail to all points in the southeast.

Standard Milling Company's Business Steadily Increases

Super Quality Poultry Mash Wins Wide Recognition for Results.

Hundreds of feed dealers and thousands of users have forced the Standard Milling Company, Atlanta feed manufacturers, to repeatedly expand their production facilities to care for the growing demand for SuperQuality Poultry Mash and Standard Dairy, Hog and Horse Feeds.

Serving the southeastern states by truck and railroad, the Standard Milling Company operates two modern feed mills, one in Atlanta and another in Macon, Ga. Both are running at or near capacity five days a week to supply the need for these high quality feeds. Shipments are made the day orders are received, thus insuring absolutely fresh feeds with all the nutritive value and potency put in them at the mill.

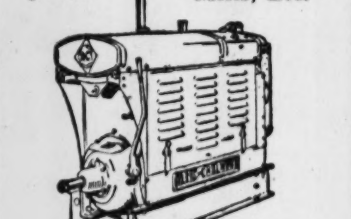

The major line of feeds manufactured by the Standard Milling Company is their SuperQuality Poultry Mash, now recognized by poultry raisers as outstanding in quality, value and results they produce. Only the highest quality feed ingredients are used in these feeds, including such time-proven ingredients as dried buttermilk, cod liver oil, yeast, alfalfa leaf meal and dried whey. They also contain water soluble mineral supplements so necessary to chickens of all ages and sizes. During recent months SuperQuality Starting, Growing and Laying Mash have been packed in colorful dress goods bags at no increase in price. This is an added value users of SuperQuality Poultry Mash enjoy.

The Standard Milling Company manufactures seven dairy feeds and two hog feeds. Six of the dairy feeds contain molasses and one is dry. They vary in protein content to suit the need of individual farmers. All are mineralized and vitaminized. The hog feeds consist of Standard 18% Hog Feed and Standard 40% Hog Supplement. The percentages indicate the amount of proteins in the feed. Both are mineralized and vitaminized and are designed to be fed with corn or peanuts to promote fast growth, big frames, firm meat and large litters when fed to breeding stock.

Inquiries from poultry raisers, dairymen and hog raisers are invited. Descriptive literature and current mill price lists will be mailed promptly upon request. A penny postcard will do. Also, free advice and suggestions will gladly be given to anyone desiring help of this nature.

Right Glasses Mean So Much To Your Eyes

Kalish & Ainsworth, Opticians, Suggest You Remember a Friend.

It might seem like a somewhat unique gift, but what could be more useful or acceptable by a member of your family or a friend than the gift of a pair of eyeglasses?

This would be a gift that would be long appreciated—a gift that would perhaps last for years.

There are times, no doubt, when glasses should be worn by some member of your family, but frequently the securing of needed glasses to relieve eye strain is put off for one reason or another—and, no doubt, in many cases a financial reason is advanced.

But do not let those who should have optical service go without it, when it would be so easy to have an examination made by an oculist, and then take the prescription he would give you to Kalish & Ainsworth, opticians, at 380 Peachtree street.

Isn't the thought of presenting someone—maybe dad or mother, or sister or brother, or some needy person—with a pair of perfectly made and perfectly fitted glasses, a happy one, just here a few days before the glad Christmastide? Think it over.

Or maybe you are the one who needs a pair of glasses—or a change of glasses. At any rate, there is full satisfaction in knowing that whatever your eye-doctor prescribes you can get exactly that prescription carefully and accurately filled by Kalish & Ainsworth.

This concern is rendering a high-type of service to thousands who need glasses throughout this city and the south. They are manufacturers of glasses, and are rendering a personalized optical service. They are not eye physicians, in the sense that they examine your eyes and prescribe the type of glasses. They only fill prescriptions from eye-physicians. They grind lenses to meet the most rigid requirements of oculists. Their work is performed by scientifically trained experts.

For 10 years or more the firm has been located on Peachtree street, and their files show that many thousands of patrons have been served by them.

Both Mr. Kalish and Mr. Ainsworth have devoted years and years to the study of the optical business. They realize this is a day of specialization, and that it is the wise and safe thing to consult men with a thorough knowledge of such delicate organs as the eyes when eye service is needed.

"After the eyes have been examined by an eye-physician, or oculist, care must be taken to have the prescription filled by a thoroughly competent optician, specializing in the manufacture of glasses," says Mr. Kalish.

And that's good advice that ought to be heeded by all whose eyes should be carefully guarded.

FEEDING FOLKS—This cozy little eating and drive-in place, corner Courtland and Forrest avenue, known as "The Veranda," is serving good, wholesome food to many in its immediate neighborhood.

Many Served Fine Foods at The Veranda

Popular Eating Place Corner Courtland and Forrest Avenues.

A lot of folks in its immediate neighborhood are finding a food service quite unique and satisfactory at The Veranda, a drive-in and eating place at the corner of Courtland and Forrest avenues.

This well-equipped and satisfying food place opens every morning at 6 o'clock and remains open until 1 o'clock the next morning. It renders a curb service, which is being used by many patrons—some in the neighborhood and many transients as they drive by.

The concern, which is owned and managed by Jack Briscoe and Thomas Russell, specializes in steaks, spaghetti, country-style vegetable soups, home-made pies, "hot dogs," hamburgers and pot dishes of various kinds. They serve four breakfast specials, and many drop in early in the morning to take advantage of their inviting meals.

The place is modernly equipped and its service of good, wholesome foods is attracting much attention in that neighborhood. Not only at the place does it serve patrons, but it gives service for parties as far as half a mile distant, this service being rendered by courteous men in uniforms. In addition to splendid meats the concern serves from time to time the freshest and finest vegetables it can obtain.

Bishop O'Hara Calls For New Loyalty Pledge

Renewed Faith in U. S. Asked by Catholic Leader.

A letter from Bishop Gerald P. O'Hara, of the Savannah-Atlanta diocese, calling upon Americans of Catholic faith to pledge anew loyalty and allegiance to the United States, was read yesterday at all masses in churches of the diocese. The letter stated, in part: "Our country is fighting, not for any material gain, but to preserve those spiritual values that are inseparable from our American way of life. We have justice, honor and decency on our side, and these in the end, prolonged though the conflict may be, will ultimately prevail against the fierce barbarism of those nations who live by brute force and who would, if they could, make themselves masters of the world and reduce other peoples to slavery and vileness. "With serene calm; with heroic courage; with boundless confidence in the justice of our cause, and, above all, with supreme trust in God, we face the task that is before us. God grant that the victory may not be long delayed so that we may soon return to the pursuits of peace."

Auburn Avenue 'Boys' United Behind President

The boys of Auburn avenue are united behind the President. That was the message yesterday of I. P. Reynolds, genial Negro letter carrier who for 35 years has carried Uncle Sam's mail on the thoroughfare which to Atlanta is what Beale street is to Memphis and Lenox avenue is to New York. "The Auburn avenue boys—all of 'em—are 100 per cent with the President in the war to beat the dictators," Reynolds wrote in his column in the Atlanta Daily World under the head of "What Sam of Auburn Avenue Says." A group of them has sent resolutions to this effect to Washington.

J. W. Hairston Succumbs Here At Age of 37

Suffers Heart Attack While Sitting in Chair.

Jack W. Hairston, 37, of 226 Peachtree View in Brookhaven, died Saturday night of a heart attack as he was sitting in a chair and the cigarette he was smoking set fire to his clothes, police said yesterday. Neighbors told DeKalb County Patrolmen C. M. Cloud and C. L. Visscher they saw smoke coming from the windows and called the fire unit at the United States Veterans' hospital. DeKalb County Coroner Paul Estes said the jury reached the verdict that Hairston died of a heart attack and that his clothes were ignited by the cigarette he was smoking when he was stricken. He is survived by a son, Jack Wills Hairston, and a sister, Mrs. A. J. Williams. Funeral services will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill, with the Rev. James Parker officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

RICH'S

Keeping Fit Becomes A Patriotic Duty

By Ida Jean Kain.

If, as Mrs. Roosevelt predicts, our next year's crops will be largely the production of a new army of "land girls," a plan for rotation of feminine farm workers along with the rotation of crops would be right in line with the program to make Americans strong.

Sedentary workers could then go down to the farms in shifts. The wholesome outdoor life is guaranteed to put the softest softie in shape. This would be a chance for the girls whose job it is to sit at a desk all day—and who grow soft despite hard work—to get the vigorous physical activity they need.

But, of course, that's just a dream. Our 1942 farmerettes will be women who can stand up to hard manual labor. They will have to be strong to start with. An old land girl myself, I seem to recall that the work day down on the farm usually begins around 4 a. m. and goes merrily along until the last cow is milked.

This is an emergency and, no doubt about it, shifting workers about would throw a wrench into our defense machinery. The office worker will stick to the job she is best fitted to do and if next summer's vacation is cut she may not see as much farm life as usual. But, as pressure of work increases, so does the need for the physical workout that relieves nervous tension.

What you career girls have to do is plan your own rotation of activity and alternate long sessions of sedentary work with exhilarating physical workouts. A good, five-mile walk every day will do as much as any single measure to put you in the pink. Most likely you shouldn't try to start off with such a long walk. But you should be able to clip off two miles daily the first week, then start stretching it out. In three weeks you should be equal to the entire five miles and from then on should make this your daily stint.

Some of you can't allot that much time to walking. But you can make in a strict rule never to ride anywhere that you can walk and you can get a surprising amount of exercise by this plan.

Excellent as walking is, you should supplement it with a few specific exercises for the large trunk muscles. These are the ones most neglected in sedentary work. For a mental as well as physical lift, the exercise should be of the extension type as in the old Swedish "cross-to-fly." Stand erect, feet slightly apart and parallel, wrists crossed in front about at waistline. Rise on toes, flinging arms up and out at sides. Down, up! Swing with easy rhythm, stretching upward all ways.

Another exercise with a lift is the "apple picker." In this, hop lightly on the ball of one foot as you stretch arm on same side high overhead, just as if you were reaching for an apple on a high limb. Hop first on one foot, then the other until you have picked a peach.

Today's Charm Tip

Let what you give as a Christmas gift be a gift from the heart, not from the pocketbook; above all, NOT from a sense of obligation.

CLIP THIS RECIPE—Eggnog Pie

RECIPE OF THE WEEK TESTED AND APPROVED BY MCCORMICK'S NUMBER BOARD
Crust: 18 Graham crackers
Cut in: 1/2 cup shortening
Add: 1/2 cup sugar, 1 tsp. McCormick cinnamon
Press firmly in bottom and sides of pie pan. Bake in 325° F. oven for 10 minutes. Allow to cool.

Combine and cook in double boiler until stiff: 1/2 cup sugar, 1 tsp. McCormick vanilla extract, 1 egg whites, 1 tsp. sugar, 1 tsp. McCormick brandy extract.
Fill crust with custard. Swirl meringue over custard filling. Sprinkle with graham cracker crumbs over top. Return to oven and brown.

NOTE:—Better ingredients mean better results with any recipe. Use McCormick's rich, pure, genuine Vanilla—it's "right" for the flavoring quality. Ask your grocer for McCormick's Tea, Spices and Extracts.

Joan Bennett, now playing in "Confirm or Deny," ponders over the "problem names" on her Christmas list. Below are mentioned inexpensive gifts which will help you with your own Christmas shopping.

A Dollar Buys a Beauty Gift

By Winifred Ware.

Unusual gifts that are still inexpensive present somewhat of a problem to most of us. Happily for us who have only from 50 cents to $1 to spend on many gifts, but who want those gifts to be really nice ones, there is a cosmetics house which seems to have specialized in beautiful packages at this price.

One of my favorites is a set of talcum and cologne boxed together in a silver striped box. The talcum and cologne come in packages which carry out the silver strip effect with green bows and peach star garlands. Their fragrance is an enchanting floral one, reminiscent of iris.

A similar set is in a quaint pink and white checked box. Talcum and cologne are decorated with pink and white checked flowers and the cologne is tied with a pink and white checked gingham bow! Either of the sets I have mentioned costs but $1!

If less than this is the limit of your budget, select one of the talcums alone. The squat little boxes so prettily decorated cost but a few cents each.

Did you want to give someone a lipstick, but thought it looked somewhat practical. This line's $1 lipstick in a handsome golden case comes in the cleverest package you can imagine—a cardboard tube with face on it and a darling pleated plaid taffeta skirt.

As exquisite a tiny gift as you can find for $1 is one of the perfumes of this line. Their milky glass bottles are decorated with tiny shell flowers in delicate pastel hues. This little bottle is then packaged in a golden bandbox with cellophane peek-a-boo top. There are two fragrances to select between, one a haunting, lasting fragrance exotic on furs and woollens. The other is a sweet but spicy floral odor, reminiscent of carnations.

More practical, yet still most pretty is a set of three cakes of soap, shaped like wild roses, enclosed in a cellophane box for $1. Or, if you want to delight someone with a completely frivolous gift give them a tall cylinder of bubbling bath powder in either a 50-cent or a $1 size.

I'll be glad to tell you where you can get these gifts or anything more about them if you call me at WA. 6565 or write in care of The Constitution, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Frankness Beats False Hospitality

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie: My husband's sister is coming to spend Christmas with us, and I am afraid there is going to be trouble. She is much younger than my husband, and is near the age of our young daughter who is coming home from college for the holidays. Well, the sister has written us that she expects to give a party Christmas in our home. We are not in a position to do any entertaining on the scale she expects, so I do not know what in the world we are going to do. Of course if there is any entertaining to do, our daughter should have first right, "on't you think? What can we do about this girl coming to stay with us? We do not want to make the visit unpleasant, but what can we do?

UPSET SISTER-IN-LAW. Write and tell her that she is welcome in your home for the holidays, but that you and your husband have decided that there will be no entertaining and that your daughter has even decided against having a party. Tell her, frankly, that entertaining at this particular time would not be at all convenient, and that you hope she will understand. Suggest that she have the party at her home before she comes to visit you, or give it after the New Year. There is no reason in the world to disrupt your entire home, just for her. Of course, make her visit as happy as possible, but since she is a member of the family, I think you will be justified in telling her just how you stand in this matter.

CHANGING DATES MAY UPSET HOSTESS Dear Dixie: If you were invited to go to a party with someone you did not care for, what would you do? I would rather not go than have the date with this certain person. Do you think it would be rude to make other plans? DESPERATE. If the hostess asked this person to bring you to the party, I think I would go on and bear it. Remember you do not have to be wild about everyone you go out with, although I will grant you that it is a great help. Since this person seems so obnoxious to you, you could ask the hostess to let you come with someone else, but make sure the someone else is an invited guest. It would be a bit rude to make other plans without consulting the hostess, but you could refuse the invitation to the party and make other personal plans.

JEALOUSY IS GIRL'S WORST ENEMY Dear Dixie: I am 13 and think a great deal of a boy who is 17. He seems to like me a great deal, in fact more than I like him, but he goes with my best girl friend. I always get very jealous of boys I go with, and that is what is worrying me. We are in school together, although we live a great distance apart. I am not allowed to go to parties and shows like the other girls. Do you think I am too young? He does not know this and if he did do you think it would make any difference?

WANTING-TO-WIN-HIM. No, you are not too young to go to parties, but a bit young to be having separate dates. "This should not make any difference to the boy if he likes you. Better stop being jealous, for it will not get you anywhere and it makes you very unhappy. Jealousy will drive him away quicker than anything, so better change your tactics.

Apron Designed for Figure Flattery

By Lillian Mae

If you're on a budget, save your better clothes by always wearing an apron at household tasks. Lillian Mae cuts Pattern 4946 generously for real protection and figure flattery, too. The bodice is cut high, with smart new brette shoulders—add two buttons on each! The back bodice is cut all in-one to keep the apron from slipping off while you work. With the sewing instructor's aid you can make two more versions quickly—one without the cap shoulder, using pretty rickrack trim; another with the slim center panel and the two optional pockets of contrast fabric. Order this up-to-date design today—it would make a welcome gift, too.

Pattern 4946 is available in sizes small (32-34), medium (36-38), large (40-42) and extra large (44-46). Small size, view A, takes two yards 35-inch fabric; view B, two yards 35-inch fabric and 3/4 yards rickrack. Send 15 cents in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Are you too tall? Too short? Too plump? Too slim? If you are irregularly proportioned in any way, let the Lillian Mae perfect foundation pattern 4745 take the guesswork out of dressmaking. Adjust this "basic figure" tissue pattern to your measurements; then cut it out in muslin and fit it exactly for a permanent record. Pin your dress patterns to it, make the necessary changes, and the finished frock will fit with perfection. Designed for sizes 12 to 20; 30 to 50. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 36-inch fabric. Price 15 cents.

Lionel Barrymore Leaves His Wheel Chair In Next Kildare Picture

By Louella O. Parsons

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(INS)—Great news for Ginger Rogers when she returns to her home base—RKO. David Hempstead, who produced "Kitty Foyle," the movie which won the Academy award for Ginger, is lining up Sam Wood, who directed it, to handle the megaphone on "Never Tell," her "welcome home" picture—the first she has made on the lot in over a year. The studio is living up to that title by giving no inkling of the plot. What are these secret scripts with Ginger? Para won't tell a thing about "The Major and the Minor," the Rogers picture for them, either.

The story is being pretty well circulated around New York that Ginger and her ex, Lew Ayres, are seeing a lot of one another again. They are good friends, and have been for years—but I can't take the reconciliation stories very seriously. Ginger said at the time she left Lew she wouldn't marry again while she had a career to think of—and she's just about the busiest girl in Hollywood now.

SNAPSHOTS OF NEW YORK AND HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Roy Rogers sends this one: A man in north Hollywood spent all day yesterday putting the following sign up on his door: "We'd rather serve the Japs than the Americans." He's an undertaker! The war has canceled Sam Goldwyn's elaborate New Year's Day party plans for "Ball of Fire." Eastern critics who had been invited are receiving wires that the party is off; Forrest Tucker buying Jimmy Falkenberg a blackout dinner by candlelight at Mike Lyman's; lack of lights didn't bother Mickey Rooney and Ava Gardner dancing cheek to cheek at the Blossom Room; Myrna Loy, who frankly has the war jitters, heads back to Hollywood a week ahead of the time she planned to spend in New York; Rita Warner, wife of H. B., is in the hospital with a leg injury; Sally Eilers celebrated her birthday with a small dinner party; the Rogers and the Rules; funeral services for Al Hall's mother are being held Saturday morning in Hollywood; Sonja Henie, scouting for her ex-skating partner, Harrison Thompson, was informed that he is serving in England's army; Lionel Barrymore is so much improved he uses just a cane to get around now and M-G-M is taking him out of the wheelchair for the next "Dr. Kildare." That's really good news in these dark days; it is true that the Bing Crosby have put their elaborate valley home up for sale; John Carradine has been inducted into the Coast Guard auxiliary with his boat and is subject to 12 hours a day duty when he is not working; Velox and Yolanda back from their dance tour to spend the holidays with their year-and-a-half-old son; John Huston is now a captain with the Signal Corps; Stephen Spingarn, New York publisher, heading back east after huddles with MGM about his book, "International Spy."

Victor Mature, not Don Ameche, will play the Paul Dresser role opposite Rita Hayworth in "My Gal Sal"—for several good reasons. First, poor Don is a little tired of biographical roles. Ever since "Alexander Graham Bell" he has been tied up with every telephone rag, good or bad—and half the fans think he wrote "Swanee River" after he played Stephen Foster in the screen. Victor, on the other hand, isn't so typed in real life roles, so 20th has decided it might be smart to let Ameche be himself for a change so they handed the Dresser role to Mature. Victor, the brother of Theodore Dresser, was a composer with 85 songs to his credit—the most popular of which will be played in the picture. Speaking of Victor, I hear that his father left an unexpectedly large estate, even the family didn't know how much money he had, for he had been a very frugal man.

Each week Fred Allen brings the most talented student from a chosen university to his program, and it is amazing how these youngsters are tested for motion picture roles. The boy who appeared on Fred's show with me—Jack Wilson from Oklahoma University, sings and plays the piano like a whizz and has the cultivated voice of an actor. One of the guests a few weeks ago was a blind boy and no one knew that he was blind until a Columbia talent scout wanted to test him. Mary Petersen, of the University of Wisconsin, another Allen guest, will be tested next week. That proves how eager the studios are to uncover new talent.

MY DAY: Ingenuity Replaces Lack of Material

By Eleanor Roosevelt

EN ROUTE FROM SAN FRANCISCO TO PORTLAND, Oregon, Friday.—We are on the train this morning, going up through the mountains of Oregon. Much of this country was settled by New Englanders. The rushing streams, which look like wild roses, enclosed in a cellophane box for $1. Or, if you want to delight someone with a completely frivolous gift give them a tall cylinder of bubbling bath powder in either a 50-cent or a $1 size.

I'll be glad to tell you where you can get these gifts or anything more about them if you call me at WA. 6565 or write in care of The Constitution, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I wish I could say that wherever I see magnificent trees cut down, I could also see plantations of new trees, but I have not noticed that as yet. One important lesson we still must learn, we cannot use anything that comes from the soil and not return something to it for the use of generations to come.

I went straight to the meeting of the San Francisco Metropolitan Area Defense Councils yesterday morning. Mayor La Guardia had held a meeting the day before with the police and fire chiefs and had evidently given them much information. The fire chief in San Francisco is no longer young and he is very much upset because the federal government has not as yet provided him with all the machines he thinks he needs.

I hope for the safety of San Francisco, that he will use his ingenuity to achieve results that must be achieved in any area. This is a lesson which we shall all learn in the next few months, because we shall often find that we cannot have what we want, but that nevertheless, things must be done.

The spirit of officials and people in general seems to be resolute and everybody has awakened from a period of apathy to a period of action. I thought the best suggestion made at this particular meeting was offered by the head of the labor council, who is also a state senator. He suggested that, during this period, the local defense council meet every morning at 9 o'clock, and the other defense council included in the metropolitan area come in at least two or three times a week. This is surely the most rapid way of co-ordinating all their activities and making them useful to each other.

I met with the federal council of all the federal agencies in the area at lunch, attended the opening of the volunteer bureau under the San Francisco defense council and visited the Red Cross headquarters. The Red Cross units on this coast have had training in meeting disasters by earthquakes, and are, perhaps, for that reason better prepared to meet the present situation.

Mannerisms Reveal Your Age

"My dear, have you noticed how old she's getting?" Do these gossip little whispers follow you everywhere? Do the face creams and the new hair-do?

Then it's time for a new kind of youth-and-beauty treatment, says Gelett Burgess in his dynamic book, "Look Eleven Years Younger." It's time to find out if you're guilty of any of these elderly little mannerisms, which shout old age more loudly than a few gray hairs or a wrinkle.

After all, what is old age—really? It's an inner slump, an attitude of "nothing matters any more." And the careless little habits you fall into as you get older are simply its outward and visible signs.

You slouch in your chair, finger boring unbecomingly into cheek. You stare off into space when people are talking to you, punctuate your remarks with vague, two-handed, old-womanly gestures.

To seem young, you have to act young—and the first step is to lick the subconscious demon who's always whispering "Go on, let's go." Lick him, says Mr. Burgess, with conscious control!

Are you a "bead-biter," a "foot-fiddler," a "face-feeler"? By watching your actions on the stage, you can change all that!

Perhaps it is a shock to recognize yourself in Mr. Burgess' gallery of malefactors—the "mumble-boys," the "mush-mouths," the "self-petters." But after the first shock you'll be itching to get on with the "treatment."

Our 40-page booklet, a condensed version of Gelett Burgess' famous book, "Look Eleven Years Younger," may be the making of a new YOU! Mr. Burgess' straightforward advice will show you how you can seem young, feel young and enjoy the fruits of youthfulness for years to come.

Send 15 cents in coins for our booklet, "LOOK ELEVEN YEARS YOUNGER," to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

"A Good Black Dress" and it fits the budget, too. The praise of this kind of dress has long been sung. It can go anywhere as the height of style. A frothy collar or eyelid embroidery makes it sparkle with freshness. Best of all, it's under $12. To learn where it can be purchased, call Winifred Ware at Walnut 6565.

Dr. Brady Thanks a Reader For Intelligent Disagreement

By Dr. William Brady

The somewhat battered and mauled 1935 Webster, who sitteth at the right hand of Ol' Doc Brady, has it that a doctor is a teacher, one skilled in a profession or branch of knowledge, a learned man—and no cracks from my friends the dentists, please. A wiseacre, says Webster, is one who makes undue pretensions to wisdom. A quack is a boastful pretender to medical skill, an ignorant or dishonest practitioner, one who professes skill or knowledge in any matter of which he knows little or nothing. It behooves a competent epithetician to keep his terminology in order, lest he assign his victim to a religious order, for example, by calling him fakir.

Notwithstanding frequent admonitions or reminders that "signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed," an unreasonable number of correspondents choose to ignore the rules and submit detailed histories of illness, symptoms, their own and others' views on diagnosis and treatment, and then get indignant if Dr. Brady fails to reply promptly with diagnosis or treatment. But in fairness to these readers, it can't be done. Still I take great interest in correspondence from readers and derive joy from the occasional good turn this permits me to do for a correspondent.

I like particularly letters from readers who, without being at all ungracious or unfriendly, say frankly that my teachings of other doctors or health authorities, or even seem to contradict other teachings of my own, and ask for further elucidation.

For example, R. L. S. writes: "I have learned much to the advantage of my health from your column, but I just do not get your attitude in respect to roughage in the diet. The other day you said that by making plain wheat a main part of the breakfast one gets not only an increased ration of vitamin B complex but also more of the minerals and the fibre required for good digestion and good nutrition." This seems inconsistent to me. I have to be careful about my diet.

You should keep on being careful about your diet, if your physician has so instructed you. My teaching about wheat applies to people not under medical care.

A larger proportion of cellulose (wood fibre) and other "roughage" or "filler" than is present in the ultrafined diet of most Americans is essential for good digestion and good nutrition. This is physiology.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Allergy. I must tell you how grateful we are for the advice in your pamphlet "Relief for Allergy." My son having "grass fever" in June was helped greatly and I cry from the hilltops for the relief I have had from dust allergy which kept my nose constantly dripping water and irritated and swollen nostrils. I have passed the pamphlet on to several friends and they have all obtained highly satisfactory results. (Mrs. S. S.)

Answer—Thank you. Copy of the pamphlet "Relief for Allergy" mailed on request, if you provide stamped envelope bearing your address.

Years of It. After reading your column for years I have come to the conclusion that you are a missionary in the most important field of health. I have received much benefit from your teachings and advice, for which I am grateful. (B. J. T.)

Answer—Thank you. And I hope you will continue to get a little amusement out of it as you get accustomed to looking to see what, if anything, I have to say today.

Bad Habit. Nearly two years ago I asked your advice concerning hernia treatment. I took the injection treatment and the results have been highly satisfactory. I wish to thank you for recommending Dr. Brady for this. Please send me information concerning constipation. (M. C. H.)

Answer—Send stamped envelope on "Hernia," or for pamphlet on "Constipation." If you want the booklet "Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene" inclose 10 cents and the stamped envelope bearing your address.

Purely Personal Chatter About Atlanta Debutantes

(Editor's Note: This is the fourteenth of the second annual series of thumbnail sketches of Atlanta debutantes to be featured in Sally Forth's column. The sketches present intimate glimpses into the lives of the belles whose names are making social history during the winter.)

By SALLY FORTH.

Some day in the not-too-distant future, you will probably be reading interesting stories in your daily paper under the by-line of Bettie Hoyt. For this debutante daughter of the George Hoyts is taking time out to major in journalism at Georgia University, even during her debut season. And when one is that deeply engrossed in a subject, something is bound to come of it!

Bettie became interested in journalism when she was editor of the Senior Reader, the school paper at North Avenue school. You will recall that her first year off at college was spent at Randolph-Macon, and though she would not take anything for that wonderful year in Virginia, she changed schools because Randolph-Macon did not offer a course in journalism. Of course it is rather difficult to combine her studies with the extensive social program of a debutante—especially a popular debutante like Bettie—but she loves the strenuous schedule and could not be persuaded to do it differently.

Bettie makes her home at the Phi Mu sorority house in Athens while she is at school, and at other times she is at home with her adoring parents at the Hoyt residence on Habersham road. She is best known, perhaps, for her great capacity for friendship. For she always finds time to listen to a friend's good fortune, and on the other hand, never fails to proffer a helping hand "when a fellow needs a friend." These intensely human qualities, as you will realize, form the basic characteristics of a good newspaper writer.

Of all the scholastic honors heaped upon her pretty head, Bettie is proudest of winning the Gladys Neal cup at North Avenue school, where she was also chosen "Napsonia" by her classmates at the end of her senior year.

Petite and dainty and demure, her piquant beauty combines wavy brown hair and hazel eyes. She possesses the knack of choosing the most becoming costumes, which she wears with a definite air of smartness and distinction. Though small in stature and completely engaging, she manages to maintain a certain dignity—a dignity which often causes a friend to remark, "Bettie you are such a lady!" And that remark more nearly describes Bettie Hoyt than any of the lovely things that may be said of her.

She will make her formal bow to society next Saturday afternoon, being jointly presented with Lurie Mizell at a brilliant reception to be given by their mothers at the Driving Club.

Little Felix de Gollan, III, adorable young son of Felix and Helen Rathbone de Gollan, was christened yesterday afternoon at the Cathedral of Christ the King. The service, performed by Father Leo Zierbarth, of Sacred Heart church, was witnessed by a limited number of friends of the couple.

Jane Read, of New Orleans, is the godmother and Jack Butler, of Roanoke, cousin of the baby's father, serves as the baby's godfather. Jane is a close friend of the infant's mother, the two having made their debut together in New Orleans. Little Felix wore for the auspicious occasion an exquisite handmade dress trimmed in tucks and lace, which was made in New Orleans by a close friend of the family. It was a gift from Mrs. Helen Dufour, of New Orleans, the maternal great-grandmother of the baby.

Margaret Harmon has a namesake! A big DOLL given her by a young man who is mercilessly teased about his 10-month-old niece.

It happened like this: The young man, who was introduced to Margaret at a recent debut party, asked her if she had a nickname. She replied that she was frequently called "Harmon." He misunderstood, however, thinking she said "Carmen." He has called her that ever since—despite her explanation that she is called by her surname.

It so happens that the young man has a niece of whom he is quite proud. Margaret teased him so about "playing nurse" that he decided to find a prototype for her. One evening last week, he arrived at the Harmon home on Habersham road carrying a tremendous doll which he presented to the lovely deb with the introduction, "This is Carmen! Now you can play nurse!"

Margaret accepted her protegee with enthusiasm, and insisted that they take the doll bowling with them that evening. The Debutante Club has already been introduced to "Carmen" for Margaret aired her with pride at a recent luncheon.

Incidentally, when the popular debutante made her formal bow to society Friday at the Driving Club, those who assisted at her reception were asked to write in her white leather scrapbook. The book, entitled "My Debut," bears Margaret's name and the year of her "coming out" lettered on its cover in gold. Those charming sub-debs, Alice Mitchell and Anne Sanford, presided over it at Friday's reception, which

Five Debutantes Feted at Party By Miss Sanders

A highlight among week-end festivities was the elaborate open house at which Miss Josephine Sanders entertained yesterday from 5 to 7 o'clock at her home on Manor Ridge drive. The affair honored a quintet of popular debutantes, including Misses Caroline Yundt, Keeker Newton, Karen Norris, Jenelle Wilhite and Margaret Harmon, and assembled a large number of the married and unmarried social contingents.

The hostess and honor guests received in the drawing room standing before the mantel. The Christmas motif was artistically carried out in the silver, red and green decorations throughout the home.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. J. O. H. Sanders, mother of the hostess; Mesdames George Yundt, H. E. Newton, Jack Norris, Paula Wilhite and Howard Harmon, mothers of the debutantes, and Mrs. Hal Davison, Mrs. Ward Wight Sr., Misses Helen Randall, Jeannette Estes, Virginia Boynton, Anne Ansley, Mrs. Raymond Arp and Mrs. John Cherry.

Features of the party included fortune telling and music, which was furnished by Graham Jackson.

Mrs. Hobbs To Give Tea for Sorority

Mrs. William Hobbs will be hostess at a tea honoring the Atlanta members of Kappa Kappa Gamma at her home, 265 W. Pace's Ferry road, on Wednesday at 3 o'clock. Mrs. William Fleming will assist Mrs. Hobbs.

Following the tea, the president, Mrs. King McCain, will outline the Red Cross work being done by Atlanta Kappas. She asks that new Kappas in the city communicate with her at CH. 3055.

The guest list for Wednesday includes: Mesdames Francis Adams, F. H. Alexander, Thomas Allen, Arthur Beall, K. Kels Bland, Edward B. Branch, Dowdell Bland, Robert W. Burns, Robert Chandler, Charles Condit, R. C. Davis, Felix De Gollan, Fred DeLand, B. B. Drummond, Frank Harold, Emil George, Lewis Hawkins, F. S. Hughes, I. Leonard James, L. R. Killam, C. M. Krensel, Lurie Krohn, Dwight Kuhn, Hugh Loker Jr., Robert E. Lorton, T. S. Mauldin, H. K. McCain, A. O. McGinnis, J. V. McWhorter, Pat Miller, S. B. Mitchell, L. M. Norris, Roland Bicknell, F. S. Matthews, R. S. Hammond, William Warren Owens, Richard Peters, Marthame Sanders, Marvin Smith, Nelson Sevringhaus, Richard Stephens, J. M. Swan, W. D. Thompson, Richard Trotter, Murray Walker, James Whipkey, Goodrich White, Charles Williams, and Misses Marjorie Bacon, Matilda Beard, Jessie Cary, Eugenia Hume, Constance Knowles, Sara Rawson Smith, Ann Mitchell, Agnes Reagan, Catherine Torrance.

Mrs. Bradley and Mrs. Duffender observe the same birthdays and for the past nine years they have celebrated their anniversaries at a tea. Assisting in entertaining the guests, who numbered a large group of friends of the hostesses, were Mrs. Charles Pyron, Mrs. Ethel Butner and Mrs. Duncan Peck.

The tea table was covered with an embroidered ecru cloth and centered with a crystal epergne filled with white carnations. Surrounding the centerpiece were colorful holly sprays and greens. A myriad of ivory lapers embedded in holly and greens were placed at either end of the table. Similar floral arrangements were used throughout the home for decorations.

Miss Dorothy Kirby will be honored at the luncheon meeting of the Women's Radio Guild at 1 o'clock at the Capital City Club.

Women's Chamber of Commerce Christmas program takes place at 6 o'clock at the Ansley hotel.

Annual East-West Game Scheduled On Coast Also Cancelled.

By International News Service. The west coast's two greatest post-season football events were "blacked out" last night.

In the interest of national security, the New Year's Day Rose Bowl game between Oregon State College and Duke University was canceled. A few hours later, similar action was taken in connection with the Shrine's all-star East-West charity game, which had been scheduled for the same day in San Francisco.

A committee of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Association yesterday canceled the long-famed spectacle and the Rose Bowl football game.

Atlanta May Get East-West Game

Possibility that Atlanta may be selected as site for the annual East-West All-Star game January 1 was seen in a statement last night from San Francisco which mentioned Chicago and this city, following cancellation of the game on the west coast.

William C. Coffman, manager of the classic which brings into combat the leading seniors of the grid world each year, stated it was likely the game would be staged in Atlanta or Chicago, pointing out that the Shrine, which sponsored the contest, has a large membership here.

Thomas C. Law, imperial potentate of the Shrine, resides in Atlanta.

General DeWitt explained to the committee that in view of the war situation on the Pacific coast it was "unwise" to permit the assembling of great crowds, such as attend the two famous spectacles.

He said further it would be improper to delegate a large number of police officers and firemen to the tournament at this time. Traffic congestion resulting from colorful Rose Parade would create another unnecessary hazard, he warned.

The Tournament of Roses committee "fell into line" and promised complete co-operation, a Fourth Army spokesman said.

Percy Lacey, business manager of Oregon State College, whose Beavers were due to meet undefeated Duke in the Rose Bowl game, issued the following statement on behalf of the committee: "Our committee was graciously received and emphatically told that there could be no Tournament of Roses parade or Rose Bowl football game in Pasadena on January 1. That tells the story."

A FEW CHESTNUTS.

Lacey said he would try to "do grab a few chestnuts out of the fire."

Lacey said he would try to "do everything" to see that the Oregon State-Duke game is played at some other stadium and declared he was "open to any offer."

Possibility that the game would be played at Lett or in a midwest sports circles last night.

An invitation to Oregon State and Duke football teams, to play the game in Soldiers' Field, Chicago, on January 1, was extended after the game was cancelled in California.

Soldiers' Field has a seating capacity of 100,000. In extending the invitation, Evan J. Kelly, director of special events for the Chicago park district and a brother of Chicago's Major Edward J. Kelly, stated:

"We want to do all we can to bring the game here, as we feel it will be a fine thing for civilian morale to have the Rose Bowl game played."

DUKE AS HOST.

Duke University officials last night had suggested to Lett that the tilt be played in Durham in Duke stadium either with Rose Bowl sanction or otherwise in view of cancellation of the Pasadena classic.

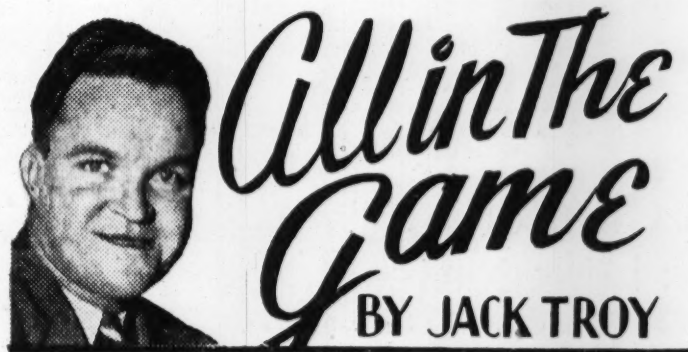

In a telegram to Lacey, sent before news that the Rose Bowl game had been definitely canceled for the year, Wallace Wade, Duke director of athletics and head football coach, said:

"We regret that conditions have developed that have influenced military authorities to suggest canceling the Rose Bowl game. Duke is ready to accept the decision of Oregon State and the Tournament of Roses committee. In case the game is called off for Pasadena, we wish to suggest for your consideration the possibility of playing the game in Durham in Duke stadium either with Rose Bowl sanction or otherwise. We can accommodate about 50,000 spectators. Our climate at New Year's Day is usually favorable for football. We would be glad to have your reaction to this suggestion if it is decided not to play the game in Pasadena."

Lowry had high scratch set of 509, closely followed by Billy Allen with 507. Allen was the only scratch man to compete, receiving no handicap.

"Bowl for Defense" is a slogan that you can carry out by competing in the big twelfth annual Christmas tournament run about this year as the national defense bond drive.

The "Whites" beat the "Reds" 12-7, while in a six-man game the Kwanto "Old Boys" held the youthful Mizuho Gakuen team to a 7-7 tie.

Beau Tye's Revenge

Chances are the next time John Martin takes Beau Tye, stylish English Springer Spaniel, into the field, he'll feed the handsome retriever a bit better fare than rat cheese, Vienna sausage and crackers, chased with branch water.

This story might well be entitled Beau Tye's Revenge. It is one of the most human dog stories that has ever happened—and every bit of it's on the level. Once again truth is stranger than fiction.

It was a cold, rainy morning as we set out from Greensboro, Ga., to drive an additional 25 miles to a dove field highly recommended by Ed Friend. For human beings the weather conditions might have seemed a little disagreeable, but it was right down Beau Tye's alley.

The bright little spaniel whipped across new ground and through rough cover like a schoolboy chasing a football; and as John Martin knocked one dove after another out of the way, Beau Tye invariably was off to make the retrieve.

There was a pause at noon—and along with the Pause that Refreshes there was a snack of crackers, cheese, sausage and son on. And so forth.

It was enjoyed with a relish by all, except by Beau Tye, as later events will bear out.

Strange Interlude As the rain abated a cold wind swept the rye field, but there was no slackening in the pace of Beau Tye. The cocky little spaniel turned in a brilliant day's work and was none too eager to get in the car when the shoot was over.

John Martin took his birds and put them carefully in a sack. John Bradberry and I dumped ours all together in the same box, along with the sack.

Martin switched on the heater and all three of us sat in the front seat in order that Bradberry could get his frozen pedal extremities warm. Beau Tye curled up on the floor in back and apparently dropped off to sleep. Every now and then we'd hear a sound remarkably like that of a human snore, and so we forgot the snoozing spaniel.

There was really no need for a distribution of birds upon returning to Atlanta. Both Bradberry and I had all we wanted and fished them out of the box. We didn't pay any attention to Martin's sack.

But John would have none of that. "Wait a second. I want to give you all some of my birds, too. Let me get out from behind the wheel and I'll get them out of the back."

He almost fainted when he reached back and his hand sunk up to the wrist in feathers.

Thorough Job One quick glance gave the impression that someone had been engaged in a feather pillow fight. Martin's sack was left, but all of his birds were gone. Every last one of the birds Beau Tye had retrieved was reduced to feathers.

"What's happened?" Martin asked, appealing to Bradberry.

"I don't know for sure," Senior Bradberry answered. "Looks like Beau Tye got hungry."

Martin first got mad and started to speak to the spaniel in a brusque, abusing tone. And then he thought better of it. He realized quickly that the retriever hadn't bothered any birds except the ones the spaniel had fetched back for him. He hadn't touched a feather of Bradberry's or mine, which we had retrieved for ourselves.

"How do you figure that out?" John Martin asked. "Well, I don't guess he cared for the lunch you offered him," Bradberry answered. "He hasn't bothered any of the other birds."

"No, that's a fact. He hasn't even touched this hawk. I suppose his taste doesn't run to such common fowl," Martin commented.

Martin quickly added up what Beau Tye's meal cost in dollars and cents, not to mention the efforts put forth by him to bag the birds, and finally marked it off to profit and loss.

"I guess old Beau figured he was entitled to some reward. Next time I'll make better provision for his midday appetite," he declared. "One thing about him—he's a one-man dog."

A Fine Dog The eating of the birds is no reflection on the character or disposition of Beau Tye, owned by Paul Brooks and sort of belonging to John Martin by adoption—at least for the winter. Beau behaved perfectly in the field. In fact, might even have won a prize in a retriever trial. What happened on the ride back home is another story. We'll always think of it as Beau Tye's revenge.

DOWN THE ALLEYS

The "Blind Pig" tournament last Saturday night proved to be a popular diversion from the regular bowling tournaments and 46 bowlers competed. Scores were higher than usual and much excitement was evident when the time for drawing came.

W. F. Lowry and Dick Fero won the tournament with a combined score of 1016; Buck Baker and Katherine Burnett came in second with a score of 974; third place fell to Ed Glading and Bill French with 972; fourth to Billy Allen and DuPre with 970, and fifth and last prize place to Bob French and Emily Kimbro with 948.

Buck Baker carried off high game honors with 147 and Billy Allen was close up with one of 144. A. Anders also turned in a game of 133 and Lowry had one of 137.

Lowry had high scratch set of 509, closely followed by Billy Allen with 507. Allen was the only scratch man to compete, receiving no handicap.

Big 2d Quarter Gives Chicago 33-14 Victory

Winners Earn Right to Meet Giants for World Crown.

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The Chicago Bears scored 24 points in a wild second period today to defeat the Green Bay Packers, 33 to 14, and win the Western Division playoff in the National Professional Football League.

The Bears also won the right to meet the New York Giants here next Sunday for the league championship.

With 43,425 spectators sitting in bright sunshine and the temperature at 16 degrees, the Bears tore the turf of Wrigley Field in that second stanza for three touchdowns, three conversion points and a field goal, gaining a 30-to-7 halftime lead.

The Packers made a terrific battle of it for the opening period, scoring the first touchdown after one minute 56 seconds to take a 7-0 lead. The Bears scored on Hugh Gallarine's 81-yard punt return for a touchdown just before the period ended.

Bob Snyder's 23-yard field goal, which opened the second period, put the Chicagoans ahead, 9-7, and from then on it was strictly the Bears.

PASSES CLICK.

The Packers got a mere 35 yards by rushing compared to 267 for Chicago. But their passing game, despite a sharp Bear defense around End Don Hutson, amassed 222 yards to 48 for Chicago.

Only one of the two Packers' touchdowns came as a result of passes. Their first, in fact, was a 7-yard Chicago fumble by Gallarine on the opening kickoff, which Ray Riddick scooped up on the Bears' 18. Clarke Hinkle crashed in two plays to the three and scored then on a reverse. Hutson's placement put the Packers in front, 7-0.

Hinkle punted late in the initial period and Gallarine took it on his own 19. Off he went, dodging and weaving with a burst of speed. With great blocking, he went all the way to the goal. Snyder's placement in was blocked. The Bears needed only Snyder's field goal to give them the spirit for that second period. They scored again almost at once when Isbell fumbled on the Packers' 18 and Joe Maniaci recovered. George McAfee raced to the 4 and Norman Standlee went over.

LUCKMAN CONNECTS.

The Bears kicked off and the Packers punted back to the Chicago 42. Sid Luckman's 26-yard pass to Bob Swisher was completed on an interference penalty. McAfee carried the ball to the 13 and in three plays Standlee again crossed the goal line.

The Bears marched 65 yards for their next touchdown. A 22-yard run by Swisher and two passes by Luckman set the ball up on the Green Bay 9. Luckman faked to Standlee, then lobbed a short lateral to Swisher, who ran wide and scored.

The only scoring in the third period was by the Packers, on a drive started by Tony Canadeo's 21-yard punt return to the Bears' 40. Isbell passed 19 yards to Hutson and ran for 14 yards himself. A short run put the ball on the 10 and Isbell faked to Harold Van Every for the touchdown.
